Fair continues record-setting stint

By MARK REA

Every record that was ever established at a Fayette County Fair market lamb sale in the Junior Fair division was broken Thursday night as the Fair approached the end of its week-long run.

Betsy Hartman's grand champion market lamb sold for a phenominal $860 cwt., a big jump over the old record of $700 cwt. set just last year.

Ora C. Burdge, representing New Holland Enterprises, bought the 115-pound lamb to kickoff the lamb sale in the sales arena.

The reserve champion, raised by Jim Hixon, also brought a record price. Cockerill and Long Auctioneers paid a whopping $700 cwt. for the second best lamb in the show.

In front of the grandstand, people came from miles around to witness the first tractor pull at a Fayette County Fair in many years. Bob Drake, John Lykins, Ted Laudes, Bob Williams, and Norm Evans each won in their respective divisions. As was evident by the capacity crowd, the tractor pull was a huge success.

THE FAIR'S weather has been ideal for the first five days, but the rain may still make its annual appearance at the 1974 Fair. The good weather, coupled with the tractor pull and lamb sale, lured a record 3,908 people through the gates after 4 p.m. This puts the Fair's total attendance at over 15,600, far above last year's pace at this time.

A total of 221 sheep were sold at the second of three market livestock auctions bringing an average price of $96 cwt., an increase of more than $30 cwt. over last year's average.

Beth Jenks had a big day at the Fair. It started with her Charolais steer being named reserve grand champion in the Junior Fair beef show. Then she won the senior beef showmanship award, and later, was named the "Showman of Showmen" in competition with top senior showmen in four other animal divisions.

Belinda Melton showed the grand champion steer for the second time in the last three years. Her steer, will be the first sold at auction at 6 p.m. Friday in the final livestock auction. Merlin Woodruff will be the auctioneer.

The Fayette County Garden Club won the sweepstakes in the flower arranging show judged Thursday afternoon. The club accumulated the most points in judging from eight different flower arranging categories. An arrangement by Mrs. Edwin Thompson was named best of show.

Friday is expected to bring a large crowd to the Fairgrounds, with the first of two auto demolition derbies slated to begin at 8 p.m. A total of 45 cars will slam into each other in three preliminary heats and a final, with cash prizes going to the winning drivers.

The finals of the Junior Fair cookie bake-off was held Friday morning as young cooks from four semifinal bake-offs test their baking skills against each other.

Open sheep and beef cattle judging were also on Friday's agenda, completing the livestock competition for 1974.

Finally, the Future Farmers of America from Miami Trace High School get to relieve some of their tensions from the past week at the FFA Frolics in front of the grandstand at 1 p.m.

JUST RELAXIN' — This small dog and the fellow by the tree apparently had the same idea about the Fayette County Fair. It is a nice place to come to, relax and watch the people go by.

Fair market lamb sale tops records

The Junior Fair market lamb sale set a new record Thursday night at the Fayette County Fair when Betsy Hartman's 115-pound grand champion lamb was sold for $860 cwt. Last year's champion sold for a "mere" $700 cwt.

Jim Hixon's reserve champion, weighing in at 100 pounds, sold for $700 cwt. compared with last year's record setting pace of $450 cwt.

Ora C. Burdge, on behalf of New Holland Enterprises, purchased the grand champion for $989 and Hixon's reserve champ went to Cockerill and Long Auctioneers for $700.

The 51.5 pound champion carcass, exhibited by Doug Bonham, was sold by auctioneer Merlin Woodruff to the First Federal Savings and Loan Association for $400 cwt. for a total of $206.

The grand champion pen of three market lambs, shown by Susan Coe, were sold separately and each brought a record price. Kaufman's Bargain Store and Montgomery Wards each paid $200 cwt. for a lamb and Harry Chakeres paid $235 cwt. for the other.

THE RESERVE champion pen, owned by Steve Coe, went to French Hardware, Landmark and the Morrow Funeral Home.

The 85 pound first place lamb in the 85 pound and under class, shown by Carey Brust, was sold for a record $135 cwt. to the Sterling State Bank, of Mount Sterling.

Kim Mcintosh's 95 pound lamb which took first placing in the 90-95 pound division, brought another record price of $125 cwt. the First National Bank, of Washington C.H., was the successful bidder.

Another record was broken in the 110-pounds and over class. The lamb which took first place in that division, exhibited by David Knisley, was purchased by Roller Haven for $125 cwt.

The 95 pound second place lamb, shown by Betsy Hartman in the 90-95 pound class, was sold to Dave Kelly on behalf of Moorman Feed Co. for $105 cwt. Sagar Dairy purchased the 100 pound second place lamb in the 100-105 pound class. Sue Mitchell was the recipient of $100 cwt.

The 110 pound second place lamb in the 110 pound class, shown by Richard Binegar, brought $100 cwt. from Willis

27-11 vote against Nixon eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The vote most members of the House Judiciary Committee regard as the most important they will ever cast faces them today as they consider articles for the impeachment of President Nixon.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., has advised the members of the committee they face, "the terrible, tremendous burden of trying to reach a decision that will last for all time."

On the basis of their previously announced positions it appeared certain a majority of the committee is prepared to recommend impeachment if a satisfactory article can be drafted.

It takes only a majority of the Judiciary Committee's 38 members to recommend impeachment and a majority of the House to impeach. It would require a two-thirds vote in the Senate to find the President guilty and remove him from office.

Rep. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, a committee member opposed to impeachment, sees a 27-11 vote in favor of a recommendation that the House impeach Nixon and that a Senate trial be held to determine whether he should be removed from office.

The task of writing an article charging Nixon with obstruction of justice in connection with the Watergate cover-up will occupy the committee today in the third day of its nationally televised deliberations.

The meeting will begin at 11 a.m. and will be televised by the NBC network.

Rules set for panel vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee's debate on the proposed articles of impeachment against President Nixon promises Americans a rare look at Congress' parliamentary wizardry.

A 1,500-word draft of two proposed articles with 17 specific charges against the President was before the committee as a working paper at the start of today's session.

It was the starting point for debate and voting on amendments, amendments to amendments, substitute impeachment articles and additional articles. Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., expects to bring final committee action on the articles by Saturday.

Rep. James R. Mann, D-S.C., predicted the parliamentary tools would be used to sculpture the final articles out of the draft "word by word."

Rodino said the first action would come on a motion by some Republicans to delay the committee's impeachment proceedings an anticipated 30 days for time to listen to and examine some of the 64 tapes and documents the Supreme Court directed Nixon to release to the Special Watergate prosecutor.

Confident that delay would be rejected by the committee, Rodino said he hoped to get a final vote late today on proposed Article I — accusing the President of "directly and personally" acting to cover up Watergate.

The chairman said he hoped to get a final vote by Saturday on all other articles, including draft Article II, accusing Nixon of eight counts of abuse of power, such as misuse of the Internal Revenue Service and creation of the White House plumbers.

Some committee members have promised to try to add additional impeachment articles such as willful tax evasion and illegal secret bombing of Cambodia.

Under rare rules adopted by the committee, each article is locked in for recommendation to the full House as soon as the committee approves it. There can be no going back to revise it before the final vote.

Thus, the minute the committee approves one proposed impeachment article, the nation faces the second full House vote on impeaching a President in its history.

Through the sometimes confusing parliamentary work will run two trends.

Republicans supporting Nixon will be trying to whittle impeachment charges down to as few as possible. Various Democrats and the Republicans who have already decided to vote for impeachment will be trying to add a battery of charges.

Although the opening 15-minute set speeches by each of the 38 committee members was called debate, the parliamentary writing of impeachment articles draws actual debate: arguments between members, sometimes heated rebuttals, sometimes shouting matches.

Special prosecutor asked to investigate Nixon taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate special prosecutor was asked to investigate the preparation of President Nixon's 1969 tax returns after the Internal Revenue Service found insufficient evidence to levy a civil fraud penalty against the President.

This documentation was contained in a statement of information released today by the House Judiciary Committee concerning Nixon's disputed $576,000 gift of papers to the National Archives. The special prosecutor's office has never announced any action in the case.

The 552-page volume deals principally with how and when the papers were donated and whether an impeachable offense might have been committed. No conclusions are stated.

The IRS ruled last April that Nixon owed $432,787 in back taxes, including a 5 per cent negligence penalty, for the years 1969 through 1972, as well as interest for 1970-72.

The President agreed to pay without a contest, including the sum for 1969, on which the statute of limitations had expired.

Documents printed by the Judiciary Committee disclose for the first time exactly how the IRS broke down its assessment of back taxes, although a general outline had been provided from the public release of a concurrent Nixon tax study done by a congressional committee.

On March 22, 1974, 11 days before the Nixons were notified of their deficiency, the chief of the intelligence division of the Baltimore district IRS office wrote:

"Based on the present information available there does not appear to be sufficient evidence to recommend the assertion of the 50 per cent civil fraud penalty in this case."

But the official, Robert Browne, said that if Nixon aides and tax preparers "could possibly testify under oath or a grant of immunity," they could "possibly connect the taxpayer with the preparation of the tax return and therefore change our recommendation against the 50 per cent civil fraud penalty."

Browne said Edward L. Morgan, a former White House aide who signed a deed for the gift papers, and Ralph Newman, who appraised them, "have not submitted to questioning under oath." And he said former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman had not been interviewed.

No surprises in economic talk

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Nixon has outlined a no-surprises economic policy calling for budget cuts, a federal payroll slash of 40,000 persons and an appeal that all citizens salt away 15 cents for every $10 spent.

Nixon made what aides termed a major television-radio address here Thursday. He was well received by more than 1,000 businessmen and manufacturers and their wives who gathered to hear him in a ballroom at the Century Plaza Hotel. Applause punctuated his remarks at regular intervals and afterwards Nixon thanked his audience for "your support."

The President did not see some 300 pickets who marched outside the hotel. These included impeachment advocates and representatives of the United Farm Workers of America.

Nixon was applauded when he pledged no return to wage or price controls, called for energy self-sufficiency and urged a re-evaluation of federal environmental and safety programs to determine whether they hamper production.

Basically, the President advocated a continuation of present federal economic programs and rejection of "the shock treatment of a sudden, drastic 'wringing out' of inflation, the cost of which in terms of increased unemployment for millions of Americans would be unacceptable."

Here is how Nixon summarized his approach:

"A policy to check inflation is fundamentally a policy to curb the growth of demand relative to the growth of supply. In the short run, attention must focus on holding down the increase in demand, because with few exceptions increasing supply takes a considerable amount of time."

Repeating a pledge to balance the budget due for submission to Congress in January, Nixon also said he will try to hold spending in the current budget year, which began July 1, to close to $300 billion. This would represent a cutback of nearly $5 billion from his goal seven months ago.

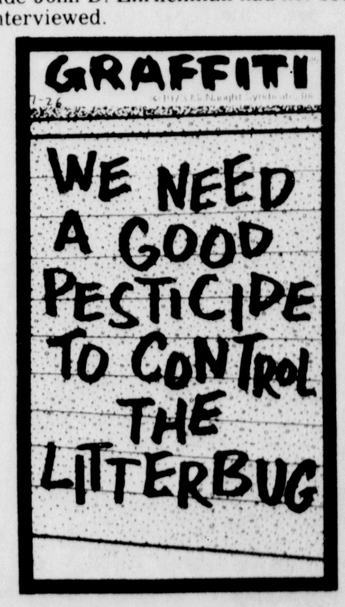

Nixon also announced he will reduce the federal work force by 40,000 by next June 30. Aides said this would be accomplished through normal attrition and would not involve firings.

Nixon urged that all Americans join in fighting inflation by cutting their own spending. He said:

"I call on state and local governments, on businesses and consumers to hold down their own spending and increase their own savings as their contribution to the fight against higher prices.

"I recognize that some Americans cannot cut their spending without real hardship. Some expenditures by business cannot be cut without cutting production now or in the future. But most families could reduce or defer some expenditures — building their savings instead — without hardship. Every business has some fat in it, just as every federal agency has."

He advocated "a cut of only 1½ per cent in personal consumption expenditures — that would mean like putting away 15 cents for every $10 spent."

Deaths, Funerals

Hugh Creamer

JEFFERSONVILLE — Hugh Creamer, 83, of Creamer Rd., died at 6:50 a.m. Friday in Fayette Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient seven hours. He had been in failing health several years.

Born on the farm where he spent most of his life, Mr. Creamer was a member of the Spring Grove United Methodist Church. He was a past chancellor and a 50-year member of the Sunflower Lodge, Knights of Pythias, a member of the Jeffersonville Lions Club, the Fayette County Fish and Game Association, the Fayette County Farm Bureau and the National Farmers Organization.

He was a former Jefferson Township trustee, served on the Jeffersonville school board for many years, and was an honorary chapter farmer with the Miami Trace Future Farmers organization.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Roy (Ruth) Stout, Xenia, and Mrs. Floyd (Martha) Badgley, Columbus; a brother, Charles (Dell), Creamer Road; four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his wife, Lela Wood Creamer, earlier this month.

Services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Monday in the Morrow Funeral Home, Jeffersonville, with the Rev. J. Eugene Griffith officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after noon Sunday, and Knights of Pythias services will be held at 8:30 p.m. Sunday.

John L. Allen

LEESBURG — Services for John L. Allen, 12, son of Laverne and Marylyn Britian Allen, of Leesburg, will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Leesburg Friends Church with the Rev. Keith Kendall and Rev. Ruth Stowe officiating.

The youth died at 8 a.m. Thursday in University Hospital, Columbus. He was born in Greenfield.

Born in Greenfield, the youth is also survived by two sisters, Diane and Janice; and one brother, David, all at home; the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Allen, of Danville, and the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Insko, of Highland.

Friends may call at the church from 2 to 4 and 7 until 9 p.m. Saturday. Burial will be in Ash Ridge Cemetery at Macon, under the direction of William Prater.

MRS. CHARLES JONES — Services for Mrs. Odessa V. Jones, 49, wife of Charles Jones, of Columbus, were held at 10 a.m. Friday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Washington C.H., with the Rev. Gerald Wheat, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, officiating. Mrs. Jones, a waitress at Carroll's Restaurant, in Columbus, died Monday.

Pallbearers for the burial in New Holland Cemetery were Thomas Harrison, Kenneth Thompson, Lloyd Davis, Paul Jones, WilliamWebb and William Jones Jr.

MRS. MARY L. MARK — Services for Mrs. Mary Lorena Mark, 85, of 1254 Dayton Ave., were held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Washington C.H. with the Rev. Allen Puffenberger officiating. Mrs. Mark, the widow of Fred M. Mark, died Tuesday.

Pallbearers for burial in Washington Cemetery were George Inskeep, John M. Hyer, Greg Mark, Charles Mustine, Harry Buchanan and James Hutton.

Tape turnover speed asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential attorney James D. St. Clair said today it would be impossible to comply with Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's proposal that the White House surrender the tapes of 64 Watergate conversations within 10 days.

But he told U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica "We will undertake to do it as quickly as possible."

However, Sirica told St. Clair, "I think you're making this thing more complicated than it should be." Sirica said he would set a timetable himself if St. Clair and Jaworski could not agree on one between themselves.

St. Clair had said that "the time-consuming process" of preparing the tapes and documents would start at once.

But Jaworski said that some 33 were virtually ready for submission to Sirica, who will review them to screen out material irrelevant to the Watergate cover-up trial.

Jaworski said, "Granting of this motion is critical if the trial of this case is to commence on Sept. 9, 1974," the date set by Sirica.

In his motion, Jaworski pointed out that edited transcripts of 20 of the conversations already have been made public. They were part of last spring's massive White House release of edited transcripts.

Dreaded time near for solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — And now the decision. The time the members of the House impeachment inquiry have dreaded.

Democrat or Republican, pro-impeachment or opposed, most have expressed sadness and distaste for the task of judging President Nixon's fitness for office, a task the House Judiciary Committee intends to finish by this weekend.

"Throughout the ages men and women have approached the impeachment process with the same sense of awe," said Rep. William S. Cohen, a Maine Republican considered leaning toward impeachment.

"Lord Chancellor Somers in 1691 remarked that the impeachment process, like Goliath's sword, ought to be kept in the temple and not used but on great occasions," he said, and added:

"The question we must decide is whether this committee should recommend to the House that that sword should be taken from the temple and handed to the Senate in order to protect and preserve the integrity of the Constitution of the United States."

The sense of awe and the deep concern about the vote have taken a toll, not only in the political lives of the congressmen, but in their private lives as well.

"I go to sleep nights — those nights that I do sleep — wondering if this is sort of a dream: impeachment of the President of the United States," said Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala., one of the publicly uncommitted.

"Unfortunately, this is no bad dream; it is the terrible truth that will be upon our committee in the next few days."

And yet there was a dissenter, Rep. Charles B. Rangel, a Democrat who represents the New York congressional district that embraces Harlem.

"Some say this is a sad day in America's history," Rangel told his fellow committee members. "I think it could perhaps be one of our brightest days.... I think it means to most Americans that when this or any other President violates his sacred oath of office, the people are not left helpless....

"I would be less than honest if I said that tonight I come toward this vote of impeachment with a heavy heart. Indeed, I would be very sad if this process was not available to me and to the American people."

And Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., the New Jersey Democrat who finished the preliminary debate, said he had searched his heart and "I find the President must be found wanting."

He said he will vote "with a heavy heart because no man seeks to accuse or to find wanting the chief executive of this great country of ours."

Texas convicts still holed up

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A state prison official said today that a marathon confrontation with seven armed convicts holding 11 hostages may be drawing toward an end.

"I don't think it will go beyond today," prison spokesman Ron Taylor told newsmen gathered outside the main entrance of the prison just before dawn.

Telephone negotiations with the rebel inmates, held intermittently since they seized their captives about 1 p.m. Wednesday and holed up in the penitentiary's education building, had been recessed for a second night by agreement.

Taylor said authorities had no plan for trying to rush the convicts and liberate the hostages, explaining, "The proper course is just to keep these hostages alive."

The director of the Texas Department of Corrections, W. J. Estelle Jr., had said Thursday night that the "negotiation picture has brightened."

Taylor also said at that time that tension on both sides seemed to have relaxed a bit.

"We think its a good sign," he said, adding that prison authorities had continued to "buy time."

Guards with rifles and shotguns ringed the brick prison in downtown Huntsville.

The convicts had demanded guns, ammunition, protective vests and "free world clothing" and had threatened to kill the hostages. But authorities said several ultimatum deadlines passed without incident.

The hostages are prison system librarians and schoolteachers — mostly middle-aged women — one prison guard and the prison chaplain.

Prison officials said they now considered the Rev. Joseph O'Brien, a Roman Catholic priest who had been negotiating with the convicts, to be a hostage because he was not allowed to leave the library Thursday afternoon.

"We consider him a hostage because we have not been able to talk to him and they won't let him come down," Taylor said.

The convicts are led by Fred Gomez Carrasco, 34, a former Texas narcotics czar who is serving a life term for assault to murder a San Antonio policeman.

Taylor said the only new demand was that the convicts, holed up in the third-floor prison library, want three M1 carbines instead of M16 automatic rifles sought in their original demands Wednesday.

He said the convicts had made no transportation demands but that "we are anticipating transportation demands."

The convicts are armed with three pistols which officials say were apparently smuggled inside, since correctional officers do not carry weapons. They took over the library Wednesday afternoon after a brief shootout in which a guard was slightly wounded. They seized 12 hostages, including the guard, but released him and a male hostage who later suffered a heart attack.

Prison officials said there were more than 50 convicts in the library during the takeover, but all but the seven returned to their cells.

The hostages have been allowed to telephone their families and were reported in good spirits. The convicts have made them sit one at a time in front of the glassed-in double door to the library to prevent any possible sharpshooting by authorities.

nesday night until some members asks for recognition to make an amendment. The article writing is then under way.

Each member can speak five minutes on each amendment before it is put to a vote.

When amendments to amendments are piled one on top of another the debate can take hours. But it eventually winds down with some members not taking their full five minutes, some taking no time at all.

Committee approval of all amendments and articles requires only a majority vote.

A separate cover resolution stating simply that "Richard M. Nixon, President of the United States, is impeached for high crimes and misdemeanors" must also be approved, also by majority vote.

Lamb sale

Insurance. Fred Melvin's second place 115 pound lamb in the 115 pound and over class brought $100 cwt. and was purchased by the Washington Crop Services. Like their first-place counterparts, all of the second place market lambs brought new record prices.

There were 221 lambs sold, not including the grand champion carcass, covering approximately 9.6 tons of mutton on the hoof. The market price for the 221 lambs was $11,550.74. The average price was $96 cwt., or $.96 per pound, topping last year's average of $79 cwt., or $.79 per pound. There were 117 single lambs sold Thursday night averaging $139 cwt. or $1.39 per pound.

Results of the market lamb sale will be carried in Saturday's Record-Herald.

The name of Lorie Merritt was inadvertently omitted from the results of the Junior Fair horsemanship winners published in Thursday's Record-Herald. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Merritt, Rt. 1, Washington C. H.

Mrs. Maurice Pfeifer, 717 Carolyn Drive, is a patient in University Hospital, Columbus, and will undergo major surgery Saturday. Her room number is 523-N.

Bare A&P price fix

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal jury has convicted A&P Stores of fixing beef prices and ordered it to pay $32.7 million in damages to seven California and Colorado cattle growers.

The U.S. District Court jury assessed the damages Thursday after finding that A&P violated antitrust laws by conspiring with other chains to restrain trade in fresh meats by setting high prices in stores and paying low prices to packers and feeders from 1964 to 1973. The other chains were named in the suit as coconspirators but not defendants.

High pressure continues to dominate the Ohio weather picture with weather activity in the state continuing at a minimum.

The U.S. Weather Service says cloudiness should thin out during the day allowing for some sunshine, and afternoon temperatures should reach about the same levels as Thursday afternoon.

The layer of high level cloudiness extending over the state during the night held temperatures generally in the 60s. The exceptions were in the extreme southwest with the mercury holding at 70 degrees in Cincinnati at dawn.

fronts. He added, "I can say from the bottom of my heart the President of the United States is innocent.... He is right."

—Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski urged U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica to order Nixon to surrender within two to ten days the tapes and documents of 64 Watergate conversations.

—The defense rested in Ed Reinecke's perjury trial after seeking to cast doubt on the accuracy of the transcript of Senate testimony on which the California lieutenant governor was indicted.

Rodino plans to continue the Judiciary Committee meeting into the night, if necessary, to complete the drafting of an article and bring it to a vote.

Other articles charging Nixon with abuse of power and failure to comply with committee subpoenas are to be offered, but as soon as one is approved a formal recommendation of impeachment will have been made.

The certainty that the committee will recommend impeachment was sealed Thursday when every uncommitted member either came out for impeachment or expressed such deep concern over Nixon's conduct of his office that it left little doubt as to how they would vote.

In a long round of speeches in which 29 members unburdened themselves on their struggle with the evidence, the Constitution and their consciences, only eight came down solid against impeachment.

Nixon's hopes of holding the committee Republicans together vanished during the debate when Rep. Caldwell Butler, R-Va., become the first of the uncommitted members to take the side of impeachment.

Nixon was dealt perhaps an even sharper blow shortly afterward when one of the committee's most conservative members, Rep. Harold Froelich, R-Wis., said he was ready to vote for impeachment if the final wording of the articles met with his approval.

"I must confess I am deeply pained and troubled by some of the things I see," said Froelich, who, earlier in his speech said it would be "inconceivable to impeach a President for anything less than grave misconduct supported by compelling evidence."

Reps. Hamilton Fish, R-N.Y., and William Cohen, R-Maine, who have been regarded for many weeks as the most likely Republicans to vote for impeachment, withheld their final decision, but not their belief that the evidence before them told a troubling story of misuse of government power.

Of the three Southern Democrats who had remained uncommitted, only one, Rep. Ray Thornton, D-Ark., gave a clear statement of his position.

"On the basis of all the evidence which is now before us, I have reached the firm conviction that President Richard M. Nixon has violated his oath of office by abuse of power and by obstruction of justice and that these offenses constitute high crimes and misdemeanors under the Constitution, requiring trial on these charges before the Senate of the United States," he said.

The other two Southern Democrats, Reps. Walter Flowers of Alabama and James Mann of South Carolina, kept silent on their final vote, but both are working on amendments to the proposed articles of impeachment.

Where nearly every proponent of impeachment said the drastic step was necessary to curb abuses of presidential power, Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., said the greater danger in the committee's proceedings was the danger of abusing the power of impeachment.

He said the only constitutional grounds for removing a President are criminal acts that have a serious impact on the government. No such grounds are contained in the case before the committee, Hutchinson said.

A similar warning against misuse of the impeachment power was made by Latta, who said removal of a president by a Congress under the control of another party would produce a fundamental change in the American system of government.

Rep. Trent Lott, R-Miss., also said the presidency was at stake in the proceedings. The evidence must point directly to the President's criminal involvement to warrant impeachment and the committee's case does not do so, he said.

"You must not impeach the first president in 100 years, and to my mind, the best president in that period," Lott said.

The opening round of speeches was brought to a dramatic finish by Rodino, who in all the months he has been running the inquiry has never publicly taken a position on impeachment.

Rodino said he had searched his heart and conscience, in addition to the evidence, "and tomorrow I shall urge, along with others, the adoption of articles of impeachment."

Stock list goes down

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly again today, apparently registering rising concern over the stability of the international banking system.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 7.98 at 787.70, and losers doubled gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said Wall Street attention was diverted from a seemingly bullish Federal Reserve report of lower loan demand by articles in two major financial publications on worries over liquidity in the international currency and credit markets since last month's failure of the Herstatt Bank in West Germany.

Sony Corp.'s recently split American depositary receipts led the NYSE most-active list, down ¼ at 6⅝. ADRs are certificates representing shares of foreign companies deposited abroad.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was down .31 at 80.39.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks lost .56 to 43.45.

Syntex, the most-active issue on the Amex, was down a point at 38¼.

NAACP sets court fight on schools

DETROIT (AP) — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People says it will go back to court to fight for a cross-district integration plan for Detroit area schools.

The Supreme Court by a 5-4 vote struck down on Thursday a cross-districting busing plan involving Detroit and 52 suburban school districts in three counties. The court returned the case to the U.S. District Court here to devise a desegregation plan for Detroit, not including the suburbs.

The high court's ruling could affect other school desgregation busing plans in the nation.

Attorneys for the NAACP here said they would attempt to demonstrate in court that suburban school districts are responsible for segregation of the schools in the metropolitan area.

"It will take some time for us to regroup ourselves emotionally, but we're going back to court," said Paul Diamond, attorney for the NAACP.

The Detroit plan was ordered in 1972 by U.S. District Court Judge Stephen Roth. Roth, who died two weeks ago of a heart attack, ruled in 1972 that only a busing plan including 52 suburban districts could provide enough whites to adequately integrate the Detroit schools.

The suburban schools had fought his plan strenuously.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, writing for the majority that overturned Roth's plan, said multi-district integration plans may be imposed only where it is shown "that racially disciminatory acts of the state or local school districts, or of a single school district, have been a substantial cause of inter-district segregation.

Heavy rain hits Arkansas

By The Associated Press

Flash flood warnings were in effect in east and east central Arkansas early today after thunderstorms dropped up to three inches of rain on the area.

Little Rock, Ark., reported three inches of rain fell in as many hours last night and an additonal 1.21 inches fell early this morning.

In other severe weather activity, a tornado damaged power lines near Verdigre, Neb., Thursday night and dropped five inches of hail.

Elsewhere, cloudy skies prevailed east of the Mississippi Valley with clear skies to the west.

Temperature readings generally varied from the 50s in New England to the 90s in the Desert Southwest. Early morning extremes were 48 degrees at Concord, N.H., and 102 at Blythe, Calif.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — This September, Boston's WCVB-TV and five other New England stations are inaugurating their own mini-network with WCVB's live "Good Morning" show and giving it a five-day-a-week, 52-week tryout.

The network, which links the Boston station to one outlet in Rhode Island, three in Maine and one in Vermont, won't exactly alarm its big brothers. But it isn't intended to do that, anyway.

It's only a means of offering New England housewives a live, regional alternative to whatever syndicated or network shows or reruns they now get from 9 to 10:30 a.m., says Robert Bennett, WCVB's general manager.

If the show proves a hit on the mini-network, he adds, WCVB might subsequently try out a regional sports program for the early evening hours and occasional regional news specials after that.

Bennett, whose station is an ABC affiliate, says the morning show, costing nearly $7,000 a week, originally was developed to both provide live local programming and fill a mid-morning time hole caused by the lack of network programming at that period from ABC.

The reason he proposed the six-station hookup, he says, "is really because we've had so much success so quickly with 'Good Morning' we thought it might play just as well in other New England areas.

"Although we do it in Boston, it's very much New England in the way it's done. And most of the people in this region kind of think of Boston as their main metropolitan area."

Co-hosted by John Willis and Janet Lanhart, the show offers interviews with news figures, celebrities and authors, as well as lessons in exercise, cooking and household repairs and medical segments.

It also features pop music groups, Bennett says, at least one live "remote" per show from outside the studio and a "Sidewalk Frolics" segment from the Boston Common every other week.

Inflation demoralizes Americans

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The failure of the administration to develop an effective program against inflation has so demoralized Americans that it could plunge the nation into a deep depression, a consumer pollster said today.

Albert Sindlinger, whose research is widely circulated in the White House, the Treasury, the Federal Reserve and Congress, said public nervousness has reached the point where growing numbers fear bank failures.

While the administration continues to say the economy is recovering, Sindlinger said in an interview, the public, worried about its falling buying power and rumors of layoffs, believes the opposite.

Daily telephone interviews with householders throughout the country show, he said, that millions fear that government doesn't understand the seriousness of inflation and is content to talk it away.

Specifically cited by those polled, he said, was the comment by Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, that the American people themselves are to blame for inflation because they have declined to accept higher taxes.

Based on past experience, Sindlinger maintains, correlations can be made between levels of confidence and future economic conditions.

So alarmed did he become over what he said was a precipitous drop in the public's confidence about future buying power, jobs, the stability of banks and the economy in general, that he personally pleaded his case at the White House.

As a result, a White House representative visited Sindlinger & Co.'s Swarthmore, Pa., office to monitor the responses coming in on the firm's battery of telephones.

Following that meeting, he visited Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board; William E. Simon, Treasury secretary; Paul W. McCracken, former chief economic adviser; Vice President Gerald R. Ford, and influential members of Congress.

His campaign reached a climax July 13 at Camp David, Md., where he said he spoke with various cabinet undersecretaries in meetings that extended into Sunday morning. Many shared his fears, he said.

While some congressmen also share his views, Sindlinger said, he believes certain advisers around the President would rather believe that the worst is behind us rather than face the facts.

Since then, the Senate voted for a conference on inflation among business, labor, congressional, Federal Reserve and administration representatives.

Sindlinger's surveys are conducted independently and sold to clients, many of them businessmen, for use in measuring and forecasting attitudes that might have an effect on sales or general economic conditions.

Sheriff's department June report lists 744 activities

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson reported a total of 744 activities his department was involved with during the month of June. This was a decrease as compared with the 895 activities for the same period in 1973.

Of the 744 activities, 434 were complaints received in office and 49 were accidents investigated, in which nine people were injured and one person fatally injured.

Two autos were reported stolen during the month of June and four were recovered.

Twenty-seven larcenies were investigated, 11 burglaries and 11 incidents involving property destruction.

Civil papers processed numbered 85, persons incarcerated in jail and traffic tickets numbered 65 and special duty activities numbered 13.

There were five dog and other animal attacks reported during the month, two accidental shootings, two missing person reports, one bad check, one assault, one fire reported and one trash dumping offense reported.

KSU group eyes new project

LONDON (AP) — Twenty archeology students from Ohio's Kent State University have arrived safely in London from Cyprus but now are wondering how to spend the rest of their interrupted working holiday.

The students, most of them from Ohio, began July 1 to excavate the site of an early Bronze Age settlement near Pendayia at Morphou Bay on the north coast of the Mediterranean island.

They had planned to spend two months there, but the military coup on July 15 and the Turkish invasion of the island five days later spoiled their holiday.

An important message to the citizens of Fayette Co.

The courts are yours

Cooperation is needed...

In the public interest and in order to furnish more comprehensive information in fairness to all sides of any controversial question, an Advertiser reporter recently researched and conducted an investigation relative to a statutory contempt charge which has been filed by the Fayette County Common Pleas Judge against a reporter for an area newspaper.

There is no doubt that the basic issue involved is the right of the trial judge in a criminal case to control the conduct of the trial in such a manner as to assure the defendant a fair trial, as determined by rather rigid standards which have been set by appellate courts, against the right of the press to disseminate any information that may come to its attention during the course of a criminal trial.

In an interview with Judge Coffman, the judge stated that the United States Supreme Court, in the case of Sheppard v. Maxwell has placed upon the trial court the responsibility to assure that the defendant gets a fair trial, and that among the steps available to the judge is a warning to reporters about the impropriety of publishing material not yet introduced in court.

The jury should determine the case on the evidence introduced at the trial, and matters about the case not admissible in evidence should not be brought to the jurors' attention during the progress of the trial. In the case of Marshall v. United States, the United States Supreme Court has held that even where jurors have indicated that they would not be influenced by news articles read by them containing improper information, the defendant must nevertheless be granted a new trial.

A review of the official transcript of that part of the trial proceedings which gave rise to the contempt charge indicates that there was a discussion between attorneys and the trial judge, out of the presence of the jury, about the necessity of a continuance because of the absence of an important witness for the prosecution who had agreed to turn state's witness.

After the continuance was granted, Judge Coffman noticed that the reporter now charged with contempt was present in the courtroom and had heard the discussion which transpired, and indicated that "this might introduce a real problem." The transcript shows the judge stated that she was "not opposed at all to the newspaper doing their job," and that rather than to identify the witness, the reporter should just indicate a material witness to the State's case was not available; "just don't identify him, just put 'a material witness,' which will be most helpful and remove all responsibility the newspaper has to the Court"... "pretrial publicity has a tendency to impede the justice that should be found within our court's system" . . . "that would solve our entire problem and still give the public the right to know that the matter was continued and why," were the words used.

Judge Coffman said in the recent interview that as she left the courtroom after this discussion, she was approached by the reporter who indicated to her that he might not be able to comply with her directive to him, and that the reporter was then told that he had better comply with the directive or he would have to suffer the consequences.

The afternoon of the same day, June 25, 1974, a local newspaper, the employer of the reporter mentioned above, printed a news story about the trial, identifying the witness whose absence caused the continuance. When court reconvened the following day for a continuation of the trial, the defense attorney called the trial judge's attention to the news story and asked that the members of the jury be questioned to determine if any of them had read the story.

On examination of the jury, it was disclosed that all but two or three of the jurors had read the story, and defense counsel then moved the court to grant a mistrial. The motion was granted, even though the jurors who indicated they had read the article also stated that they did not feel it would influence their decision in the case. Naturally, the mistrial will cause an additional expense to the county and has in effect wasted many people's valuable time.

When asked for her views on the subject, Judge Coffman indicated that while she is completely in favor of the right and duty of the press to fairly and impartially report all proper information to the public, she feels that there must be some sense of properiety, preferably voluntary, during the course of criminal trials. Freedom of speech does not give a person the right to shout "Fire"! in a crowded theatre. The rights of defendants in criminal cases to a fair trial must be protected. With the increasing number of criminal trials, and the increasing cost of each of them, and the increasing particularity of appellate courts in their determination of what is a fair trial, it behooves the trial court to take such proper steps as may be necessary to assure fair trials.

It does not seem sensible to waste the time of the court and court officials, the trial attorneys, the witnesses, the jurors and the county's money, just so the press can print improper information during the course of a trial. After the trial is over, they may give as complete an account as they wish, because it cannot then influence the outcome of the trial. In the face of irresponsibility, it is the court's duty to take action which might otherwise be unnecessary.

Judge Coffman also stated that she had recently issued rules to law enforcement agencies restricting information which could be disclosed prior to trial concerning defendants which might have to stand trial at a later date. She feels these rules were both necessary and appropriate to protect the right of persons charged with crimes to a fair trial, and says that they are in no way an adverse reflection on our law enforcement officers, who are doing a commendable job.

These rules are part of the court's effort to avoid mistrials and reversals of convictions in the future. While they have been called "gag rules", they are actually what have been recommended by the American Bar Association for some time.

The local attorney who will be charged with prosecuting the above mentioned contempt affidavit would not comment on the case except to say that the present contempt charge is against one reporter and no additional charges against any other person or organization has been threatened or even contemplated since there is no sufficient basis for such action at this time.

He did state, however that there is always a chance that further information could lead to other actions.

Judge Coffman indicated to this reporter that this factual article relative to the current contempt proceeding, could not prejudice a decision in any way as the trial would not be before a jury but will be heard by a judge who is from another area far removed from the area covered by this and other local publications.

NOTE— In the public interest the above message is published so you may be informed of our common pleas court's position.

New man on Cyprus

Rights and wrongs and conflicting national interests are interwoven in the fabric of the Cyprus problem. It is not an open-and-shut matter to label the bad guys and good guys; the history preceding the present situation is far too complex to permit that.

Having said this, one can also say with confidence that the man who drove out Archbishop Makarios and took over the government in a bloody power play is not much of a bargain. The self-proclaimed new president of the island nation, Nicholas Sampson, has a long record of bullying and violence. He also has few evidence qualifications to govern, being both poorly educated and hot-headed.

Nico Sampson has parlayed his taste for murderous violence into power. In recent years he has published a newspaper (whose revenues he augmented, according to a Los Angeles Times report, by threatening the lives of businessmen who declined to take out ads). His ostensibly patriotic activities date back to the 1950s when Cyprus was struggling for its independence from Britain.

In those days Sampson, by his own later account, specialized in shooting British soldiers on the streets of Nicosia. This led to a dubious hero status and to his being sentenced to life imprisonment by the British, who released him with the coming of independence. He became a member of the Cypriot parliament, but in the 1960s sent his gunmen out to kill Turkish officers and civilians on Cyprus.

Sampson reportedly has had a long association with the Greek military intelligence. This may have something to do with the fact that on occasion he has fought against fellow Greek Cypriots who were loyal to Makarios. All in all, he does not appear to be the man to unite the warring factions on Cyprus.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Filling Warren's shoes

SACRAMENTO—The flags are at half mast for a native son who served the nation well. Earl Warren as chief justice of the United States led the way out of the segregation dead-end quickening hope that the two worlds, black and white, could be brought together.

In the same way during his two terms as governor of California, with re-election to a third term interrupted when he was named chief justice, Warren set moderate progressive goals both for the state and for his party. He was in a long standing California tradition that accepted change, the inevitable change of this change in ways least burdensome both to the rush of newcomers from across the country and to the native sons.

WAREN'S DEATH comes as his party in California stands betwixt and between past and present. His district of Gov. Ronald Reagan who turned his face against so many things which Warren stood for was no secret. Ending his second term, Reagan was the smooth television star who presence was the message with issues thrust out of sight.

In the recent primary, the Republicans nominated State Controller Houston Flournoy as their candidate for governor. At 44, he is nearly 20 years younger than Reagan. He was a former teacher of history and constitutional law at Pomona College before he defeated Sen. Alan Cranston for the controller's office.

Looking younger than his years with a quick response and a lively sense of humor, Flournoy could be, as he has been billed on occasion, the moderate progressive successor to Warren in rebuilding the party. But the weight of the Reagan past hangs over him. The governor made an all-out attempt campaigning throughout the state two years ago to put over a constitutional amendment which would have frozen taxes at a certain level and at the same time put a limit on all social services. Flournoy supported that effort which failed by a fairly wide margin.

Reagan has been the darling of a small group of very wealthy Californians who have given him their favors in return, it is charged, for special consideration for their interests.

During the Democratic primary, Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco, an unsuccessful candidate for governor, charged that Flournoy met with these same Californians on January 12 and agreed on goals for the state. Flournoy laughs at this, saying sure they met but he will be his own man when he is elected.

Trying to stand clear of Watergate and the Nixon scandals is for Flournoy a more formidable challege. Determined to concentrate on state issues, he will be confronted at every turn as the impeachment process proceeds with the demand that he declare himself on the fate of that other Californian, Richard Nixon. This had already begun with the Democrat successful in the primary, Edmund G. Brown Jr., calling on Flournoy to speak out on Watergate.

LONG AGO, Earl Warren had first-hand knowledge of Nixon's perfidy. At the start of the Republican convention of 1952 the California delegation crossing the country by train was overwhelmingly for Warren. Nixon flew to Denver, joined the train and persuaded a number of delegates that Dwight Eisenhower's nomination at Chicago was inevitable and they had better get on the bandwagon while there was still time.

I met with Warren as the convention opened. While he was careful in what he said, it was apparent he had been deeply wounded. As president, he would have had the extensive background in administration and in politics that Eisenhower lacked and which was one reason for the poor domestic record of the Eisenhower administration. But that might-have-been is irrelevant against the splendid record of the Warren court in the critical years of the '50s.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

SATURDAY, JULY 27

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

A complex situation indicated. Play for time until certain factors are cleared up. This is one time when the "waiting game" will prove beneficial.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Avoid those who would try to pry information out of you. A slip of the tongue at the wrong time could have serious repercussions.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Some changes in your life indicated. Be receptive: They will be for the better. During the p.m. you could meet someone who will be important to your future.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

You may have to sacrifice some personal desires for the benefit of others. But, in the long run, it will prove worthwhile.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug.23)

Personal relationships under excellent influences. Most persons will be highly congenial and you may even be the recipient of an unexpected gift.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Be prepared for a "touch" from someone you feel rather sorry for, but don't go overboard. Generosity CAN be carried too far.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

An unexpected invitation to an evening get-together holds some interesting surprises. Just what you need!

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You may have been dwelling too much and too long on job and business affairs. Seek out your gayest and most frivolous companion and indulge in a bit of "escapism."

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Don't let loyalty to an associate involve you in a bizarre situation. It's a day for being strictly conventional.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Extravagance in general not recommended, but spending on business entertaining now justified if good will results.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Nip unwholesome suggestions in the bud. They don't deserve a thought. But useful ideas warrant encouragement. Be up and doing in profitable areas.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

From out of nowhere may come a unique suggestion. No harm in considering its possibilities: It could prove highly amusing.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a dynamic personality, lofty ambitions and unusually strong qualities of leadership. You are extremely gregarious and high-spirited; are magnanimous by nature and, in your climb to success, often bring other along with you in remarkable fashion. Leoites make extraordinarily brilliant executives, able trial lawyers and politicians, highly imaginative artists and writers, and are skilled in practically all branches of the entertainment field. You are extremely generous to those whom you love, but often try to run their lives in return. Curb this trait. Learn to give for the sheer joy of giving.

Ohio Perspective

Anti-cheating law is effective today

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — From now on it's going to be tougher on butchers who put their thumbs on the scales and merchants who cheat in Ohio.

Today is the effective date of a 1974 enactment that greatly increases the powers of the Ohio Department of Agriculture and its counter part agencies among local governments.

The new law empowers the agriculture director or his agents to enter any commercial business place and to seize evidence for possible use later in a court. Such seizure must occur during normal business hours.

Rep. Richard L. Wittenberg, D-44 Toledo, and some other legislators won passage of the omnibus bill after committee hearings and floor deliberations spanning 14 months.

Now an agriculture director may go into any court of record and request an injunction to halt suspected unfair business practices.

The beefed-up powers are included in a voluminous statute that clarifies and spells out the director's duties and responsibilities. It also stiffens penalties.

Offenses such as false labeling of weights and measures can bring up to 90 days in jail, or a fine of up to $750, or both, for a first offense. Subsequent violations are punishable by up to six months in jail and a possible fine of $1,000.

The law also gets into bulk sales for products such as heating fuels, and requires the seller to provide a sales ticket that includes names, dates, quantity delivered and unit upon which the price was based. Any bulk sale of more than $20 is covered by the statute.

Wittenberg's bill was among seven that became effective today—90 days after being signed by Gov. John J. Gilligan. Two others extend new privileges to Ohio's senior citizens and still another moves farmers a step nearer a long-awaited tax break.

For the first time Ohioans 62 and over may vote an absentee ballot in November for no reason other than wanting to do so. The legislature did away with a requirement that they like others must be unavoidably away from home and at least 10 miles removed from their polling places.

Tax bills affecting homeowners 65 and over and permitting farmers to pay property taxes on their land on the basis of use instead of market value also became effective today.

The effects of these two new laws will not be felt until next year when they settle their tax bills.

The legislature eliminated a requirement for an annual application to receive the state's homestead property tax exemption. A senior citizen will have to file new applications only if his income grows and puts him in a lower exemption bracket or if ownership changes hands.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Foot doctor gets her in shape to walk out on husband

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 28, married and has two adorable children. She phoned to ask if she could come over to talk to me about something important. Well, she just left, and I am a wreck!

She is having an affair with-of-all people-her foot doctor! (He's married and nearly twice her age.) My daughter is very pretty, but she's stupid. She has a husband who treats her like a queen. What she wants with this foot doctor, I'll never know.

I wish she had never confided in me. What did she expect me to tell her? Now that she's told me, if she leaves her husband, she can say: "My mother knew all about it."

I told her to get another foot doctor and to quit seeing this man, but she cried and said: "But, Mother, I love him!" What a nut! She needs a head doctor, not a foot doctor. Now that she's involved me, what should I do?

HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You've done all you can. You've listened to your daughter, and given her some sound advice. The rest is up to her. (Nice man, this philandering foot (loose) doctor. He gets his patient's feet in shape-the better to walk out on her husband.)

DEAR ABBY: Every time my husband is near a pencil and a piece of paper, he scribbles his name all over it. I cannot keep a scratch pad near the phone without his ruining it in this manner.

I have several different opinions as to why he does this. I will believe yours. Can you tell me why a man writes his name on every piece of paper he sees?

Thank you.

T FROM TEXAS

DEAR "T": Most people, when there is a pencil and a scratch pad handy, will doodle. It's normal. The fact that your husband writes his name all over the pad consistently could mean: (a) he has an identity problem, or (b) he has NO identity problem.

It's not serious, so quit collecting opinions about a harmless little habit, and lay in an ample supply of scratch pads. Or use the backs of old envelopes and or butcher paper.

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and I am still a virgin. My problem: Every time a guy tries to get something off me and I turn him down he starts spreading dirty rumors about me saying I gave in. I live in a small town where people like to run their mouths.

How come boys never talk about the girls they get something off, but they make up lies about the girls who won't give in?

How can a nice girl save her reputation from trash like that?

A NICE GIRL IN ATLANTA

DEAR NICE: Stay "nice and don't worry about what anybody says. The kind of people who matter don't listen to trash. And the other kind don't matter.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, July 26th, the 207th day of 1974. There are 158 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1953, Fidel Castro began a revolt in Cuba, attacking an army barracks at Santiago.

On this date:

In 1759, the French abandoned Fort Ticonderoga to the British in the French and Indian War.

In 1775, the Continental Congress established a post office department, with Benjamin Franklin as the first Postmaster General.

In 1874, Liberia was declared a republic, making it the only sovereign Black nation in Africa.

In 1944, in World War II, German V-2 rocket bombs hit targets in England for the first time.

In 1952, Argentina's first lady, Eva Peron, died.

In 1956, Egyptian crowds hailed President Gamal Abdel Nasser in Alexandria as he issued a decree nationalizing the Suez Canal.

Ten years ago: Teamsters Union President James Hoffa was convicted of fraud and conspiracy in the use of union funds.

Five years ago: U.S. scientists made the first tests of moon rocks brought back to earth by the Apollo Eleven astronauts.

One year ago: The United States cast its fifth veto in the U.N. Security Council, killing a resolution opposed to continued Israeli occupation of Arab lands seized in the 1967 six-day war.

Today's birthdays: Conductor Donald Voorhees is 71 years old. Writer Alice Winchester is 67.

Thought for today: Many toil hard to earn a loaf when a slice is sufficient — Dutch proverb.

At present, more than 60 per cent of the Newfoundland government's revenues come from the Canadian federal government.

God Appears to Elijah

And, behold, there came a voice unto him, and said, What doest thou here, Elijah? . . . (then) the Lord said unto him, Go . . . return to Damascus.
—I Kings 19: 13-15

Weary after slaying the priests of Baal, Elijah went up to Mount Carmel to pray, and the rains finally fell upon the drought-stricken Israel. Ahab, in the meantime, returned to his home and told Jezebel of the massacre. Extremely irate, she vowed vengeance and Elijah, hearing this, begged God to take his life. But this was not to be. Instead he fell into a sound sleep and later was wakened by an angel who fed him, then told him it was God's will that he travel on to Horeb—a trip of forty days and forty nights. As usual, Elijah obeyed and there, on the sacred mount, the Lord appeared and gave him several instructions—the most important of which was that he train Elisha, the son of Shaphat, to become his successor.

Aviatrix shoots for priesthood

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The first woman in space, Jeannette Piccard, is taking another flyer to become one of the Episcopal Church's first women priests.

"I'll make it if I live long enough," says Mrs. Piccard, now 79.

A lively, pungent woman with a zest for pioneering ventures, she is among 11 women planning to be ordained at a regulation-challenging service in Philadelphia next Monday.

Concerning the restrictions that have kept women out of the church's priesthood, she says, "They're medieval."

"They're the result of a biological misunderstanding of the middle ages," she said in an interview last fall in Louisville, Ky., at the Episcopal Church's convention, which refused — by a technicality — to authorize women priests.

She said the medieval world didn't understand that a woman's seed is just as essential as a man's in producing life. "If women can't represent men at the altar, then men can't represent women," she said.

Mrs. Piccard, widow of the late famed aerospace scientist Jean Piccard, became the first woman in space in 1934, when she piloted a spherical balloon to an altitude of 57,559 feet into the stratosphere.

A holder of degrees in philosophy, psychology, education and organic chemistry, Mrs. Piccard was a consultant to NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston between 1964 and 1970, and is holder of numerous awards, including the Harmon trophy from the League of International Aviators.

For a decade, she also has served with Episcopal schools in Houston and in MinneapolisSt. Paul, Minn., where since 1970 she has been a deacon, the first step toward the priesthood.

Usually, a deacon advances to the priesthood in six months to a year. But Mrs. Piccard, as a woman, has waited five years.

She's among 120 Episcopal women who have completed theological training, been ordained deacons, and now are waiting to enter the priesthood.

About 200 other Episcopal women are studying in seminaries.

Amid that gathering pressure, the 11 women deacons planned to jump the gun, defying the church's practice and policy, and be ordained at the hands of the inactive bishops.

However, church standing committees of their home dioceses have not approved — as required by canon law — and most of their home diocesan bishops say the women would be barred from functioning as priests.

Baptists hold tent revival

Jeffersonville Baptist Fellowship will sponsor an Old Fashion Baptist Tent Revival at the Jeffersonville School grounds July 31-Aug. 4. Included in the program will be a vacation Bible school schedule.

Revival services will be held at 7:30 p.m. daily with the Dr. Leonard Stigler, director of evangelism at the Ohio Convention of Baptists.

Bible school classes will be held from 9:30 a.m. until noon daily and are open to all children between the ages of four and 12 inclusive.

A.M.E. Church anniversary

The Southern Ohio Conference branch missionaries of the A.M.E. church celebrate 100 years of missionary work Sunday at Rodgers Chapel, 325 N. Main St.

The program will begin at 4 p.m. and will include several pageants.

The public is invited to attend.

Cut pickets in Ohio BCI walkout

LONDON, Ohio (AP)—Striking workers at the Bureau of Criminal Identicication and Investigation complied Thursday with a court order limiting the number of pickets at the facility to three per entrance, the Madison County sheriff's office reported.

The sheriff's office said picket lines were reduced within an hour after deputies served contempt notices against the picketers for failing to observe the court order.

The striking workers, who walked off the job Wednesday, are seeking union recognition for laboratory workers at the facility.

Assault charges were filed Thursday against BCI Supt. E. Eugene Starrett by two striking employes.

Susan Elliott, 22, and Mary K. Deck, 22, both of London, alleged that Starrett tried to run them down with his automobile when they were picketing Wednesday.

Charges are also pending against another BCI official, according to William M. O'Neill, assistant director of the Ohio State Government Employes Union, which is representing the striking employes.

Laboratory workers walked off the job in a demand that OSGE be recognized as their legal bargaining agent.

Starrett said guidelines set by the attorney general's office require the union to represent at least 50 of the workers before negotiations can begin.

Starrett maintains that only 46 workers belong to the union.

Set presentation on conservation work

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Natural Resources Department's Fall Conservation Workshop will feature a presentation of the 1974 Conservation Achievement and Conservation Hall of Fame awards, the department said Thursday.

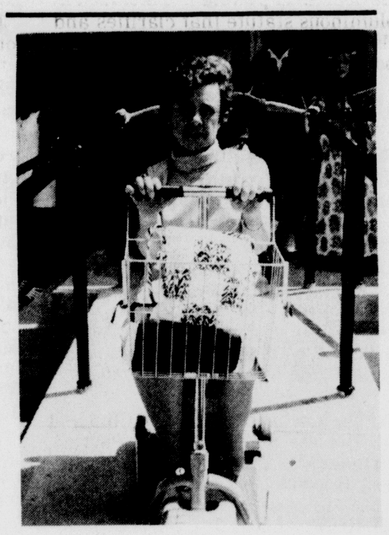

The three-day workshop begins Sept. 27 at Mohican State Park. Discussions will focus on land capability planning and new legislation affecting wildlife, reclamation and fuel resources.

Nazarene program

The Nazarene Young People Society service Sunday night will feature the Horsley Family, of Columbus. The guests will present both the singing and preaching of the evening service which begins at 7:30 p.m. The First Church of the Nazarene is located on Ohio 41-S.

GOSPEL GROUP—A gospel team from the Appalachian Bible Institute in Bradley, W. Va., will present a concert of sacred music at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Fayette Bible Church. The young college group includes a mixed quartet and pianist. The program will feature music, testimonies, congregational singing, and a Bible message.

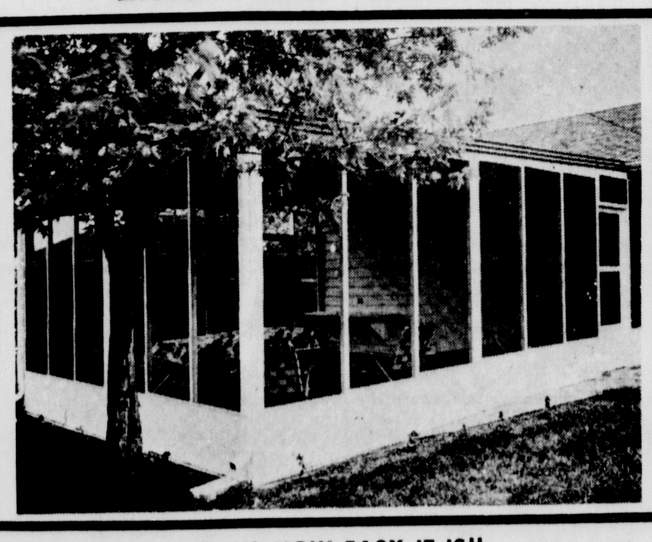

A HELPING HAND — The South Side Church of Christ has lent a helping hand to the handicapped members of its congregation through the construction of a ramp entrance. Mrs. Patti Hillery is pictured above leaving the church on the newly erected ramp. Roger Sowrd constructed the facility.

Bible classes scheduled

The First Baptist church, corner of North and East streets will hold Vacation Bible School classes during the week of August 5-9. Classes are open to all ages and will be held from 9 to 11:30 a.m. daily. The schedule will include Bible lessons, music, crafts, recreation, and refreshments for ages four through junior high.

Teachers for the Bible school will include Shirley Vess, Nancy Hurtt, Marjorie Forsythe, Joyce Zimmerman, Linda Polson, Harriet Baker, Margaret Hurtt, Maxine Mossbarger, Pam Smith, Darlene Crummy, Sandy Smth, Monica Shipley, and the Rev. Ralph Wolford.

MR. AND MRS. RUSSELL THEOBALD

'Open house' is planned to observe anniversary

In honor of the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Theobald of 8023 U.S. St. Rt. 62, their children will be hosts for an "Open House" on Sunday, Aug. 4 from two until five o'clock in the White Oak Grove United Methodist Church, Greenfield-Sabina Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Theobald were married July 25, 1949, in Washington C.H. Their children are Mrs. Virginia Dews of Chillicothe; Mrs. Max McGee of New Lexington; Mrs. William Cathey of San Bernardino, Calif.; Miss Annabelle Theobald and Michael L. Wagner, both of Washington C.H. They have six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Bride-elect feted at pretty shower

Mrs. Lewis Kuhlwein and Mrs. Thomas Palmaccio combined hospitalities for a miscellaneous bridal shower honoring Miss Marcia Garringer, bride-elect of Douglas Srofe, in the Kulhwein home.

Games conducted by Mrs. Palmaccio were won by Mrs. David Wackman, Mrs. Robert Climer, Miss Ann Marchant, Miss Janelle Donahue, Mrs. Mike Flynn, and the honor guest.

Following the opening of many lovely and useful gifts, the guests were served cakes, punch, nuts and mints.

Those attending were Mrs. James O. Garringer and Mrs. Robert Climer, mothers of the couple, Mrs. Ellet Kaufman and Mrs. Willard Greer, the grandmothers, Miss Melissa Climer, Miss Jo Shoemaker, Miss Janelle Donahue, Mrs. Mike Flynn, Miss Belinda Ramey, Mrs. David Wackman, Miss Tove Woodmansee, Miss Terri Dumford, Miss Barbara Heinz, Miss Ann Marchant, Miss Jody Morrison, Miss Patti Trivisanna and the Misses Peggy and Polly Wood.

Little stingers can kill

What you don't know about insects can kill you.

So say medical authorities, who stress the importance of knowing whether you are allergic to insects that bite.

Trouble is many people don't know.

A study of several thousand insect bites by the American Academy of Allergy shows that half of those suffering severe reactions didn't know they were susceptible to insect venom.

Actually no one knows the exact toll in lives because sudden death in a garden or while outside may be attributed to heart attack without further medical investigation.

At the same time the Health Insurance Institute says flying insects and ants are expected to kill more people this year than snakes and spiders.

These insects cause 2 out of every 5 deaths resulting from venomous bites in this country.

The first danger sign that a sting may cause severe problems may be shortness of breath, palpitations of the heart, inflammation of the affected area.

Of course, most people only have a mild reaction, a little localized swelling, perhaps. However, a person with any unusual reaction should seek or go immediately to a doctor or hospital for emergency treatment.

If he is aware of his allergy, he should carry the proper medication with him when exposed to insects.

But how do you protect yourself if you're stung?

The first thing is to find the stinger that may have been left in you.

If it's there, beware. Don't pull it out. It contains a sac of benom and the more pressure you apply the more this poison seeps into the body.

ICE IS BEST

Your best approach is to scrape it out with your fingernail, or a sharp instrument. Then thoroughly wash the wound to avoid infection. Apply ice or cold compress if possible.

Biting insects such as mosquitoes or ticks have no venom. But their saliva can cause trouble by entering your tissues while they are siphoning your blood.

What do you do?

For the tick, apply a drop of mineral oil, gasoline or kerosene to it. This relaxes it. Then it can be removed with a tweezers. Here, too, the wound must be throughly cleaned.

But don't try to pull out the tick with your fingers. It can leave its jaws imbedded in your skin and cause infection.

Miss Hurley is bride of Clarence Duncan

Miss Judith Hurley became the bride of Clarence Duncan in a double ring ceremony July 21. The Rev. John Tipton performed the double ring ceremony at 3:30 p.m. in the Church of Christ in Christian Union.

Two seven branch candelabra flanked each side of the altar with white bows and greenery. Mrs. Spencer Spurgeon, organist, presented wedding music. Miss Vickie Hannah, niece of the bride, sang "Whether Thou Goest."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hurley of Jeffersonville, and Mr. Duncan is the son of Edward Duncan of Washington C.H., and the late Mrs. Duncan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long blue crepe gown with V-neckline and long puffed sleeves. Her shoulder-length illusion veil was caught with a silver clip. Her only jewelry was a silver necklace, a gift of the groom. She carried a white Bible with blue and white roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Thomas Geake of Jamestown, niece of the bride, and matron of honor, wore a long pink crepe gown with puffed sleeves. Miss Phyllis Kinnison of Jeffersonville, another niece of the bride, was the bridesmaid. Her gown was identical to that of the matron of honor. They each carried a cascade of pink and white roses and baby's breath.

Little Miss Patricia Hannah was the flower girl. Her long pink gown of dotted Swiss was identical to the other attendants, and she carried a wicker basket filled with pink and white roses.

Thomas Geake of Jamestown served as best man for Mr. Duncan. Darrell and Edward Hannah of Jeffersonville and Daniel Cook of Washington C.H., nephews of the bride, served as ushers.

Mrs. Hurley chose for her daughter's wedding a yellow and green two-piece dress with which she combined white accessories. Her corsage was of yellow sweetheart roses.

The reception took place in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Orville Cook. The bride's table, covered with a white linen cloth, was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a bridal couple. The cake was baked and decorated by her sister, Mrs. Ben Kinnison of Jeffersonville.

Hostesses for the reception were sisters of the bride, Mrs. Orville Cook, Mrs. Janet Hannah of Jeffersonville, and Mrs. Lloyd Cook of Washington C.H.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Duncan are at home at 419 East St. They both attended Miami Trace High School. Mr. Duncan is employed at Colonial Stair and Woodworking in Jeffersonville.

Beware of excess weight it may shorten your life

Attention fat swimmers and sunbathers: That gut you sport is out of fashion. It no longer is an indicator of success.

Rather, says the Healtn Insurance Institute, it is a sign that your life is in danger. Actuarial tables reveal that excess weight can shorten you life, lead to heart attacks, arteriosclerosis, high blood pressure and diabetes.

So what to do ?

Most authorities recommend a sensible reducing diet.

Here's one prescribed by the Life Extension Institute, a New York-based medical group specializing in providing physical examinations for thousands of executives annually.

The first step is a thorough review of your dietary habits: rich foods, between meal snacks, TV watcher's munches.

You should make a list of what you eat, and with the help of a diet book or your physician, separate the foods into three categories—fats, carbohydrate, protein—plus alcohol.

Next, estimate the caloric value of each food on the basis of its content, and how much of it you eat at each meal or on a daily basis.

Now calculate from a diet table the number of calories you need according to your sex, age, height, build and daily activity, and in most cases you will find you have been eating a lot more than you require.

However small that excess may appear, you must now about one-third less. This is the amount of food you will be eating for quite a while.

Then comes the part that is hardest to stick by—removing large portions of those heavily caloried foods from your diet.

For example, pasta and potatoes (especially chips or fried). Also, says the Life Extension Institute, you should cut down butter intake except what you use in preparting foods. Here you might substitute a vegetable oil.

Further, trim down on other fats in the meats, cheese and salad dressings you use. In their place you may increase the use of bulky foods such as vegetables, green salads and fruit.

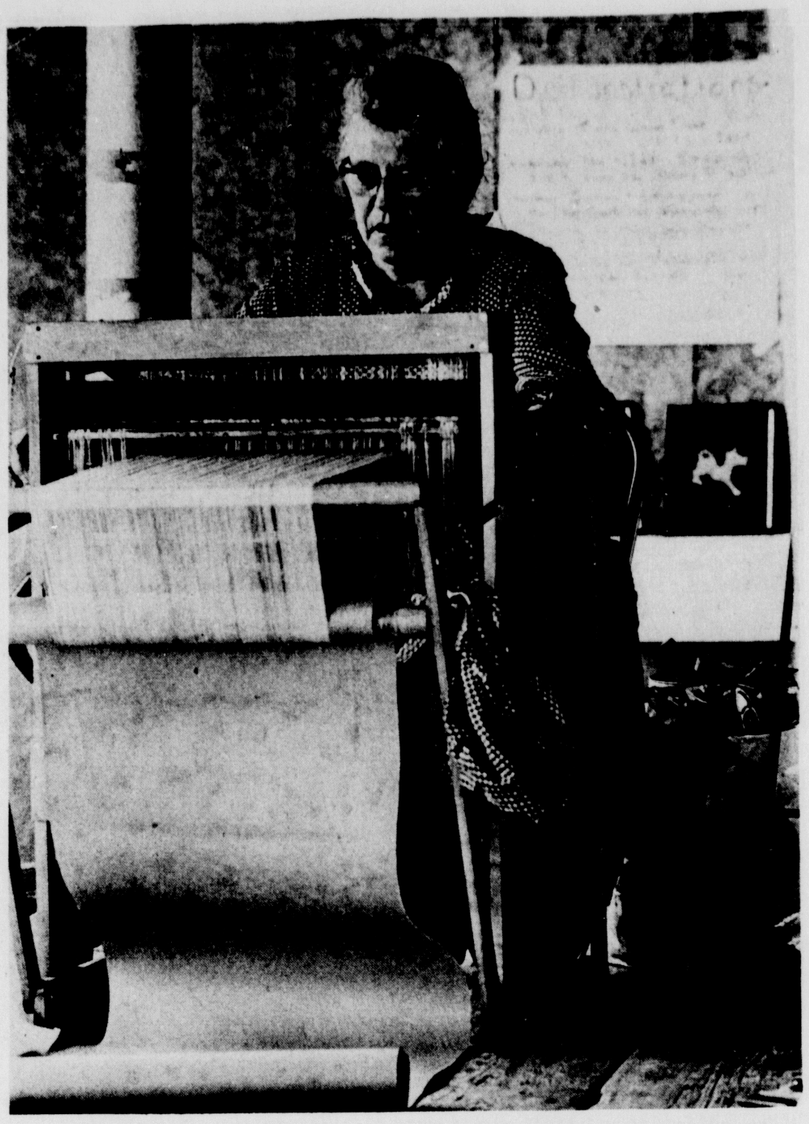

Salt and other condiments should be used sparingly, too.

And now the bad news for some is that in order for the diet to be truly effective, you should give up alcohol.

Some other tips:

Eat frequent small meals to satisfy hunger as it occurs and to forestall between-meal munching.

Try the anti-gourmet approach of preparing simple meals, condiment free and low in salt content.

WEAVING — Mrs. James Baughn Sr., Palmer Rd., is shown weaving place mats by using bread wrappers. This was one of the demonstrations in the Fine Arts Building at the Fayette County Fair on Thursday.

49th wedding anniversary observed by Kelleys

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kelley, 125 River Rd., were honored in their home Monday evening for the celebration of their 49th wedding anniversary. Mr. Kelley and the former Eva Wilson were married in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Frank Sollars in London. Their only daughter, Kathleen, greeted the guests and presented the ladies with corsages of white carnations and the men with red carnation boutonnieres as they arrived. Mrs. Kelley was wearing a beautiful orchid corsage, presented to her by her husband. Mrs. McKinley Kirk was in charge of the guest registry.

The party was held in the basement recreation room which was beautifully decorated with arrangements of summer flowers, many of which were anniversary gifts to Mr. and Mrs. Kelley.

The reception table, covered with a white linen cloth, was centered with a lovely summer flower arrangement and flanked on either side by triple silver candlesticks with tall white tapers.

After Mr. Earl Watson offered prayer, refreshments of cake, ice cream molds in the shape of twin wedding bells, mints, nuts, punch and coffee were served. Mrs. Sydney Bloomer presided at the silver coffee service and the cake was served by Mrs. Fred Shoop. Other assisting hostesses were Mrs. Orville Blanton, Mrs. Emerson Marting and Mrs. Glenn McCoy.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Kelley opened many gifts and cards of congratulations from their many friends and relatives.

During the course of the evening the guests introduced themselves and many told how long they had known the Kelleys and some of their experiences with them through the years.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. B.E. Kelley, Mrs. Orville Blanton, Mr. and Mrs. McKinley Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Groves, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Watson, Mrs. Shirla Hux, Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Miller, Mrs. Dora Rader, Mr. and Mrs. Max Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Freda Mace, Marty Mace, Mr. Donald Mace, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shoop, Mr. Herbert Plymire, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Marting, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney M. Bloomer, Mr. and Mrs. O.W. House, Mr. Marion Burr, Dr. and Mrs. Charles M. Pfersick, Mrs. Forest Whiteside Baughn, Miss Medreth Whiteside, Glenn W. Whiteside, Dr. and Mrs. Marvin H. Three options set for draft registration

Ohio Selective Service director Paul A. Corey announced that 18-year-old men in Fayette County are now able to register for the "draft" by mail rather than having to appear in person at a registrar's office.

"Now young men will have three options for fulfilling the registration requirement," Corey said. "They can register at a local board office, with a volunteer registrar, or by mail." Corey again cautioned that the law requires all male persons in the United States (except certain non-immigrant aliens) register with Selective Service within the 60-day period commencing 30 days prior to their 18th birthday.

A young man will now be able to pick up a form and complete it at home. After completing the form, he need only fold, seal, and mail it. Poster-box displays containing the registration forms are placed in the Washington C.H., Bloomingburg and Jeffersonville post offices.

The nearest Selective Service Office is located at the Federal Building, 85 Marconi Blvd., Columbus. The telephone number is (614) 469-5722.

Belinda Melton's steer named as grand champion

Belinda Melton's Exotic was named grand champion in the Junior Fair beef show Thursday at the Fayette County Fair. She also showed the grand champion steer two years ago at the Fair.

Beth Jenks wins showman honors

Beth Jenks was named "Showman of Showmen" in the showmanship competition Thursday afternoon at the Fayette County Fair. The top senior beef showman, she was judged the best overall for her handling of her steer as well as a barrow, heifer, horse, and lamb.

Last year, her brother Scott Jenks won the Showman of Showmen award. As with Beth, his beef steer won him the right to compete in the contest.

Other competitors in the show were Sharon Jenkins, sheep; Rhonda Medary, horse; Rusty Coe, hog; Susie Pero, dairy cattle.

Beth Jenks won the senior showmanship competition with Miss Melton and Scott Gerber placing second and third. The winner in the junior showmanship division was Cindy Baird followed by Terry Anderson and Louie Null.

Miss Jenks also raised the Charolais steer that was named reserve champion.

The champion and reserve champion were also champions of their breeds. Other breed champions were David Hiser's Hereford, Susan Wilson's Angus, and Mary Ann Wilson's Shorthorn.

Reserve breed champions were Scott Gerber, Charolais; Chris Garland, Angus; Jeff Schlichter, Hereford.

Dick Sour judged the animals and Irv Bell was the showmanship judge.

All the steers will be sold at auction at 6 p.m. Friday in the sales arena.

It takes from 30 to 40 gallons of sap to make one gallon of maple syrup.

Second Day Camp series slated to open Monday

The second of three 4-H Day Camps sponsored by the Fayette County Extension Service in conjunction with the county commissioners, Federal Food Service, and Community Education program will start Monday. The camp will last for eight days, July 29 - August 1 and August 5-8. The time will be from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m.

The price of the camp will be $1 for the entire eight days of camp for each child. The money will be used to insure each child against accidental injury.

The program at the camp will consist of four mini-projects, sewing, cooking, wood working, and bicycle safety, of which the campers will choose one. All the campers will enjoy such activities as, physical fitness, ecology, art, crafts and recreational outdoor games.

There will also be a morning snack and a balanced lunch provided for each camper.

Bonham tops lamb carcass event at Fair

Doug Bonham's lamb carcass placed first in the lamb carcass contest Thursday evening at the Fayette County Fair. Results were announced prior to the Junior Fair market sale.

The champion carcass had a score of 109.7 points in a scoring system taking into its account the cutability, loin eye areas, and judges' opinions.

First Federal Savings and Loan bought the carcass, which weighed 51.5 pounds, for $400 cwt. Bonham's lamb was placed seventeenth in the live evaluation Monday.

Second place in the contest went to Tim Ogan, Bruce Carson and Forest Priest had the third and fourth place carcasses, respectively, and fifth was Kim Bryant.

In all 22 carcasses were cut out by Village Packing Co., of Columbus, and all of the mutton was graded either prime or choice. Dr. Ned Parrett and Dr. B. D. Van Stavern, Ohio State University, judged the carcasses.

It was the nickels and dimes of children that paid for the 89-foot-high pedestal for the Statue of Liberty in 1886.

OBEDIENCE CLASS WINNERS — Winners in the Junior Fair Dog Show obedience classes were Laurie Lisk, Jeff Harper, Kevin Persinger and Vicki Bock.

Urge convenient voting registration

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown Thursday urged state election officials "to adopt a plan making registration places more convenient" for voters.

Speaking at the secretary of state's annual Conference on Elections, Brown said 62 counties have total voter registration and four have partial registration.

Ben W. Forston Jr., secretary of state of Georgia, was scheduled to address the conference today.

Gilligan staff gets blame for state surplus coverup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan's campaign manager Thursday blamed the governor's aides for giving Gilligan bad information on the state's financial picture.

Eugene "Pete" O'Grady said the governor relied upon his staff for the figures that showed the state would have no surplus.

Gilligan finally did a turnabout and said there was $80.5 million in excess funds for public spending, which was put in the supplemental appropriations bill passed Tuesday.

Asked if the turnabout had hurt Gilligan's credibility, O'Grady said: "I believe his credibility suffered only because he relied upon his staff.

"The governor can't know all things at all times," he said. "In that particular instance he got trapped in the mouse trap."

O'Grady's remarks came amid statehouse reports that Budget and Management Director John B. Olsen and Jay Tepper, the governor's financial advisor, were in "hot water" because of the unpredicted surplus.

Republicans in the legislature had been shouting for weeks that an $80 million surplus existed. Gilligan said they were "chasing moonbeams" and "there is no surplus."

Democratic sources said Gilligan, just before having to announce there was a surplus, lectured Tepper for several minutes about misleading legislators on financial matters.

Both Tepper and Olsen were out of town and unavailable for comment.

O'Grady, at a news conference held to tear down former Gov. James A. Rhodes' statements about industrial development during the eight years he was governor, did not name the Gilligan aides responsible.

Asked if they should be dismissed, he said:

"I'm here to win an election right now. I'm not here to determine who should be on the payroll."

'Policeman' under arrest

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Plainclothesmen Roger Hummeldorf and Kenneth Ryan said they were working on a vice probe Thursday when they noticed a young man staring at them from a parked car.

After identifying themselves, the officers said, they asked the man to move on. But the man, 24-year-old Fred Alonzo Norman, went them one better.

He told Hummeldorf and Ryan that they were under arrest, the officers reported.

They promptly arrested Norman for impersonating a police officer. They also discovered an outstanding warrant against him for assault and battery.

Both charges were continued in Hamilton County Criminal Court and Norman was released on his own recognizance.

Plymouth Duster:

26.6 mpg. in U.S.A.C. tests on the open road.

In recent U.S. Auto Club tests, our Plymouth Duster, equipped with its standard Slant 6 engine and manual transmission, got 26.6 miles per gallon, going 55 miles per hour on the open road. That's better gas mileage than the Nova or Maverick 6. And in those same tests, Duster even got slightly better gas mileage, in city driving, than Mustang II even though it has a 4-cylinder engine. Of course, the kind of mileage you get depends on your driving habits, highway conditions, and the condition of your car. But these tests prove that our Duster's a gas economy superstar. And right now, Duster is clearance priced. So c'mon in . . . for a great clean-up deal.

Planners review proposal

Members of the Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission favorable reviewed a proposal for representation on a board of trustees during its regular monthly meeting Thursday in Columbus.

J. Herbert Perrill, chairman of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners and a member of the eight-county MORPC, said the proposal submitted by the refinement committee suggests representation from each county, each city and all villages with a county. The city representatives will be appointed by the mayor or president of council while the village representatives will be appointed to the board by mayors.

Each representative, under the proposal, will be an elected or appointed public official.

Under the proposal, Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette, Madison, Pickaway and Union counties would have three representatives and 7.9 per cent voting strength. Franklin County would have a total of 16 representatives and 42.1 per cent of the voting power, while Licking County would have four delegates and 10.5 per cent of the voting strength.

All action of the Council of Governments should be taken by resolution or motion, according to the new plan. Each resolution will be introduced by a member of the board in written or printed form and would not contain more than one subject.

No resolution of a general or permanent nature, or creating a right, involving the expenditure of funds, or the purhcase, lease, sale or transfer of property, will be acted upon unless it has been recommended by a committee and unless it has been placed on the agenda of the meeting sent at least 10 days in advance to all members of the board. There will be no authority to dispense with the rule, except by a vote of two-thirds of the members of the board present and voting.

The proposal also outlines a weighted voting provision. Prior to calling for the final vote on any issue, the chairman may ask if any representative desires a weighted vote. If there is no request for a weighted vote, then the board will follow written voting procedures.

In order to pass an issue for which weighted voting has been called, an affirmative 60 per cent of the weighted votes cast by representatives present and voting is required.

Mrs. Lou Briggs, president of the League of Women Voters in Franklin County, attended the meeting and suggested citizen membership on the board of trustees. Under Mrs. Briggs' proposal all citizens representatives would have voting privileges.

False report charge dismissed in court

In Municipal Court Thursday a Washington C.H. man was found not guilty of a charge that he made a false report to city police officers, a Bloomingburg man was sentenced to jail for a theft offense, and three Ironton men forfeited bond on charges of hunting raccoon out of season.

The charge against James R. Matthews, 20, of 1225 N. North St., making a false report to a police officer, was dismissed after the prosecution failed to prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt. Judge Reed M. Winegardner dismissed the case on a motion offered by defense attorney Omar Schwart which charged that the evidence presented by the city was inconclusive.

Matthews had been charged after it was determined that the car he had reported stolen had actually been loaned by him to a friend. However, according to the testimony, he reported it stolen when he found that the young lady to whom he had loaned the car did not have a driver's license.

The judge stated that he made the ruling because the defendant had not intended to disrupt the orderly workings of the police department but rather to prevent prolonged violation of the law.

The auto had been recovered by the police shortly after the report and the driver had been cited for driving without an operator's license.

Danny T. Keaton, 30, Bloomingburg, was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days in jail for exerting control over stolen property while knowing the property to be stolen. Twenty days of the jail term were suspended. The item in question was an automobile starter valued at less than $150.

A charge of assault filed on a private warrant against Emanuel Martin, 31, of 1109 Willard St., was dismissed at the request of the plaintiff. The defendant agreed to pay court costs.

Three Ironton men forfeited $60 bond each for hunting raccoon out of season. The men were Ernie E. Sizemore, 30; Homer L. Ruggles, 28; and Raymond L. Easterling, 37. The charges were filed by Jerry F. Cremeans, area game protector.

Courts

CIVIL SUIT FILED

Daniel and Norma Huff, Waynesville, have filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Richard and Freda Craig, Parrott Station Rd. The plaintiffs claim that they have entered into a contract to purchase the Nuzum-Mills farm on which the defendants are tenant farmers and wish to survey the contents of the property and buildings prior to purchase.

They claim that the defendants have refused them admittance to the 294-acre farm and thus they are unable to execute the purchase contract. They seek a mandatory injunction giving them access to the property, an injunction to prohibit the defendants from removing any goods or machinery from the property, and request that the court order the defendants to harvest summer crops so that the fields will be clear for the plaintiffs to plant crops in the fall.

Included in the petition is a request for a judgment in the amount of $5,000 compensatory and punitive damages against the defendants for their actions in reference to the property.

The property is presently owned by Gordon and Anita Mills, of Lexington, Ky.

Monthly report for muny court

A total of $14,176.70 flowed through Municipal Court during June, according to figures released by Ruth Pearce, clerk of the court.

Income was generated by fines in Ohio Highway Patrol cases, $5,148.85; fines on city cases, $3,210.90; collection of court costs, $2,997.75; fines in state cases, $2,173.70; fines for violation of wildlife, $516; and other collections, $129.50.

The money was distributed to the City of Washington C.H., $8,296.58; Fayette County, $2,699.59; state treasurer, $2,316.98; the division of conservation, $516; the Sheriff's department, $286.55; and other distributions, $90.

Vietnam veterans bonuses mailed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Vietnam Veterans Bonus Commission said it expects to mail about 16,000 checks and educational benefits this week, making a total of 70,000 checks issued since June 7.

With this week's production, 28 per cent of the nearly 240,000 applications from Ohio Vietnam veterans will have been processed, the commission said. The applications represent forms from about 13 per cent of the estimated 500,000 eligible veterans in the state.

Man surrenders in theft case

NEW YORK (AP) — A man accused of knocking John F. Kennedy Jr. off his bicycle and stealing the bike has surrendered to police.

The 13-year-old son of the late president was on his way to a tennis lesson in Central Park on May 14 when he was approached by a man who took his bike and tennis racket.

Police reported on Thursday night that Robert Lopez, 20, had surrendered and was charged with robbery and possession of stolen property. Police said Lopez brought along the tennis racket but not the $145, 10-speed bike.

Linda Lovelace charges dropped

LAS VEGAS, Nev.(AP) — Narcotics possession charges against porno movie queen Linda Lovelace have been dismissed by a justice of the peace.

Stephen Smith charge dismissed

NEW YORK (AP) — Stephen Smith, brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy, won't have to contest a theft of services charge in a case involving an unpaid 60-cent taxi fare.

Manahattan Criminal Court Judge Ernst Rosenberger dismissed the charge Thursday because the cab company declined to press the charge and because the meter was not running during part of the trip.

Smith, 47, who is married to the former Jean Kennedy, was arrested July 2 after he refused to pay his fare to a Manhattan nightspot. He faced a possible fine of $1,000 and up to a year in jail.

Judge Robert Legakes dropped two counts of possessing cocaine after ruling on Thursday that police used an invalid search warrant when they entered Miss Lovelace's hotel room.

The 23-year-old star of "Deep Throat" was arrested at the Dunes Hotel last Jan. 31 with Los Angeles producer David Winter. The charges against him had been dropped earlier.

Arbitration sought in Newark dispute

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Unsatisfied with the 10 per cent pay increase offered by city officials, firemen say they are requesting binding arbitration.

According to a union spokesman, the firemen requested mediation when an impasse was reached in their year-long negotiations with city officials for wage and benefit increases.

Trucker jailed here; facing six charges

A 29-year-old truck driver from Palmyra, Mo., has been arrested and charged by the Washington C.H. Police Department with improper turn, insufficient lights, driving left of center, failure to display rear license plate, resisting arrest and driving while intoxicated.

The charges resulted when Patrolmen Mike Stritenberger and Larry Mongold noticed a semi tractor cab, driven by Lester A. Dent, make a U-turn in the 100 block of E. Court Street at 2:45 a.m. Friday.

Upon stopping Dent and allerting him to the violation, Ptl. Stritenberger noticed a strong odor of what was apparently alcohol and asked Dent to take a field sobriety test. Dent got back into his truck cab and drove off, stopping again in the 700 block of Washington Avenue and locking himself in.

Sheriff's deputies Don Cox and Dave Krupla and Auxiliary Deputy Dave Dray responded to assist Ptl. Mongold and Stritenberger, along with Police Sgt. Robert Massie and Police Chief Rodman Scott.

Dent was then forcibly removed from his truck cab through the use of chemical mace and incarcerated in the city jail, where he is presently being held in lieu of $1,450 bond.

Lottery duties to be handled at 1st National

The First National Bank has been designated as the Fayette County agent to handle lottery transactions. The announcement was made Friday by Gertrude W. Donahey, state treasurer.

She stated that the duties of a bank will consist of providing the new lottery tickets to the lottery agencies and collecting the cash receipts and unsold tickets from the agents. The funds from the sale of tickets will be sent by these banks directly to Columbus so that they can be invested to earn interest and provide additional funds.

The Ohio Lotterly Commission will hold a meeting with the banks and representatives of the treasurer's office to discuss the procedures.

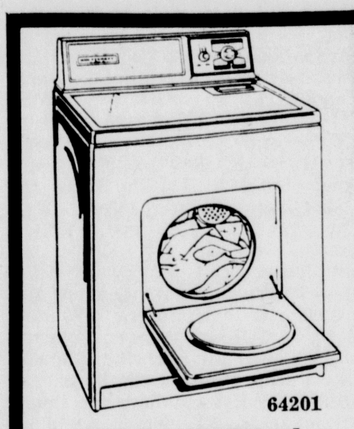

Union strikes GM lamp plant

ANDERSON, Ind. (AP) — Local 663 of the United Auto Workers struck the General Motors Guide Lamp Division at 12:03 a.m. (EST) today after failing to reach a settlement on a local contract.

Contract negotiations had been extended from the original 9 p.m. strike deadline.

A management official said earlier the union and the company were far apart in may different areas of negotiations.

Members of the local began picketing the plant, a key supplier for all of GM's assembly facilities. The plant employes some 4,500 to 5,000 workers.

Woman teamsters worker attacked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One of the six picketing office workers of the Teamsters Union Local 413 said she was attacked by a woman Wednesday and decided to call off the demonstration.

The workers, all women, have been picketing in front of union headquarters for two days in an effort to get a contract providing job security.

FOUR INJURED — Three young men from Wilmington and a young Fayette County man were injured in this crash which occurred at 6:55 p.m. Thursday, at the intersection of the CCC-Highway-W and Staunton-Jasper Road. The impact of the crash knocked the car pictured in the foreground down an embankment and through a fence into a field. The other car involved is shown on the road, above the aforementioned car. Investigating Sheriff's Deputy Don Cox stands in the upper left hand corner of the photo, completing the accident report. The persons involved in the accident had been removed to Fayette Memorial Hospital when the photograph was taken.

Four persons suffer injuries following rural two-car crash

Four persons were injured in a two-car accident at the intersection of the CCC-Highway-W and Staunton-Jasper Road at 6:55 p.m. Thursday. The injured included a Fayette County man and three young men from Wilmington.

Driver of one of the vehicles, Daniel N. Humphreys, 16, Allen Road, was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by Parrett ambulance service, where he was treated for abrasions and contusions of the face and later released.

The driver of the other car involved, Darrell E. Wysong, 18, Wilmington, and his two passengers, Brian D. Kersey, 17, Wilmington and Kenneth D. Yeakley, 18, Wilmington, were also taken by ambulance to the hospital.

Wyson was treated for chest pain; Kersey, for a lacerated left leg and Yeakley, for a bleading nose and nausea. All three were then transferred to Clinton Memorial Hospital in Wilmington. Hospital officials in Wilmington reported Yeakley was transferred to a physician in Kettering and had no report on Kersey. Wysong was treated and released.

Sheriff's deputy Don Cox, who investigated the two-car mishap, explained the car driven by Humphreys was turning left off the CCC-Highway-W, onto Staunton-Jasper Road, when struck by the auto driven by Wysong.

The impact of the crash knocked Humphreys' car through a fence owned by Ray C. French, Rt. 2, Washington C.H. and into a field.

Deputy Cox reported that both autos were severely damaged. He said Wysong was charged with fictitious registration.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department also investigated an accident which occurred in Bloomingburg, at 1:40 p.m. Wednesday.

A truck driven by David W. Ackley, 24, of Greenfield, struck a fence owned by Ephriam Alltop Jr., Bloomingburg, while pulling from the backyard of a private residence.

An accident at the intersection of Washington and Columbus avenues and Court Street at 10:23 p.m. Thursday, involved a car driven by Nancy Jo Glass, 31, Bloomingburg and a truck driven by Roy C. Underwood Jr., 42, of 429 Fifth St., city police reported.

Damage was estimated by police as minor.

Exchange charges over cease-fire

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Greece and Turkey exchanged charges here today over breaches in the fragile cease-fire on Cyprus, British delegation sources said. There was no early agreement on how to strengthen peacekeeping arrangements on the Mediterranean island.

At one point in the confidential talks, delegation sources said, Greek Foreign Minister George Mavros produced a map which the Greeks argued indicated the positions of hostile forces when the cease-fire went into effect Monday.

Before the meeting Greek officials said Mavros would warn that unless Turkish troops withdrew behind the U.N. cease-fire line, the peace talks here would fail.

According to British sources the only general agreement reached at this morning's second session of talks was that "breaches in the cease-fire undermine the security of the island and the confidence of the people in the guarantees."

But, "considering the difficulties, the atmosphere of the talks went well," the sources said.

Greece, Turkey and Britain— the three powers which guaranteed the indepedence of Cyprus in 1960—are meeting at the Palace of Nations overlooking Lake Geneva, the U.N. headquarters in Europe.

British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan arranged the talks, promoting the need to strengthen the cease-fire.

Community spirit sends children to county fair

Twenty children were excitedly discussing the Fayette County Fair, which is of course, not unusual. However, the fact that they were discussing it, without means to attend, was unusual and unfortunate.

Discussion turned into phone calls, phone calls led to further discussion, discussions resulted in actions, and those 20 children are attending the fair.

The children are the often forgotten youngsters who reside at the Fayette County Children's home.

Mrs. Linda O'Pry, director of the children's home, and Mrs. Swanson Mounts, who frequently invites the children to her home, were engaged in conversation when the fair was mentioned. The two discussed the unfortunate fact that the children would not be attending, although it was their favorite topic of conversation during the past week.

Mrs. Mounts then recalled that a friend of hers, Mrs. J.C. Wright, and her husband had been active with the Springfield Children's Home before moving to Washington C.H.

Mrs. Wright called fair board member Frank Weade, who approached the board concerning the situation.

LESS THAN 10 hours later the 12 girls at the children's home were admitted to the fair, courtesy of the board, and riding rides through the generosity of the Gooding Amusement Co.

The girls were at the fair from 5 p.m. until about 9 p.m. Thursday. They were also treated to refreshments by the board.

The eight boys at the home preferred seeing the demolition derby. They will be attending Friday night, and will be served refreshments. Gooding has also offered to let the boys ride with their compliments.

The actions of the many individuals sparked others to participate and the Washington Savings Bank has contributed $50 to the children and area car dealers through their association have contributed $25. Mr. Wright has made a personal contribution of $8.

Other groups have contributed to the home on various occasions. The Mount Sterling Fireman's Association has invited the children to their carnival in past years, the Gradale Sorority remembers each child on his birthday, and the Shrine Club sponsors a trip to the Shrine Circus in Columbus.

Area parent teacher organizations have invited the children to many of their skating parties, and it seems everyone is more aware of the children's needs at Christmas.

Mrs. O'Pry expressed her gratitude for all contributors and was especially happy that the youngsters could attend the fair. Many contributions are received at Christmas, she said, and they are very warmly received, but the children are at the home all year long. Fairs are a special treat for children, and it is especially nice to see the community react to the youngsters' needs outside the holidays, she added.

House OKs strip mine legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed a bill that would establish national environmental controls for coal strip mining, sending it to the Senate where similar legislation was approved last fall.

A House-Senate conference to iron out differences between the two versions was viewed likely.

A major difference is a provision in the Senate bill prohibiting strip mining of millions of tons of federally owned coal beneath ranch and prairie lands in the West.

The House bill, approved 291-to-81 Thursday, does not include such a prohibition although it would require the surface owners, consent before the federally-owned coal could be mined.

Approval in the House came after six days of sometimes heated floor debate, during which environmentalists attacked the bill as too lax and energy-industry forces criticized it as too stringent.

The bill would establish a seat of federal environmental standards for surface coal mining and would create a new strip mining agency in the Interior Department to enforce them. States would be permitted to establish their own enforcement programs under he bill. But their standards would have to be as strong or stronger than the federal ones.

The bill would ban strip mining in such areas as national forests, parks, grasslands and wilderness, would provide especially stringent requirements for strip mining in mountains and would require all strip-mined land to be restored to its approximate original contour after mining.

Acupuncture does work, report says

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The medical director of the Acupuncture Center in Washington, D.C. said Thursday that the treatment does work when properly applied, and that Chinese technicians should be allowed entry into the United States to train doctors in its use.

"Acupuncture does work when properly applied," said Dr. Arnold N. Benson. "It does not do everything, but then neither does any other department of medicine."

Dr. Benson said that acupuncture has been known in China for 5,000 years and has been recognized in Europe since 1900. He noted, however, that many things stand in the way of American use of treatment.

Only seven states have passed laws allowing Chinese experts to practice acupuncture and setting up testing programs for those giving treatment. Dr. Benson said 12 other states are considering legislation.

"The physician is concerned with healing," he said, adding that the scientific basis for acupuncture should be left up to medical investigators.

"Ninety per cent of medicine cannot be explained," he said. "The real point is—does it work."

Dr. Benson said the admission of Chinese technicians operating under American physicians would help prevent possible harm from the piecemeal use of the treatment.

"In time these professionals will teach their American colleagues the necessary knowledge and technique," Dr. Benson said. "Then the Americans, in turn, can set up courses in medical schools and teach coming generations of doctors."

Popular tractor pull attracts huge crowd

The newest grandstand attraction, the tractor pull, attracted a crowd of 2,431 persons from every corner of the state, and a number of surrounding states.

Five classes were slated on the program and everyone was enthusiastic, including the 65 entrants. The five classes were up to 5000 lbs. (modified), up to 7000 lbs. (stock), up to 7000 lbs. (modified), up to 9000 lbs. (stock), and up to 12,000 lbs. (stock). The speed limit in the stock pulls was six miles per hour, but there was no speed limit in the modified pulls.

Bob Drake won the 5,000-pound modified pull with a pull of 300 feet or a "full pull". Harvey Faul was second at 287 feet, 6 inches, and Gene Faulkner got third place with a pull of 272 feet, four inches.

John Lykins bettered the field in the 7,000-pound stock pull with a pull of 225 feet, 11 inches. Behind him were Gerald Davidson at 190 feet, six inches and Jim Johnson at 188 feet, four inches.

In the 7000-pound modified pull, Ted Laudes came out on top with a pull of 307 feet, 11 inches. Behind Laudes was Rich McPherson with a pull of 273 feet, two inches and Jim Writsel, pulling the sled a distance of 252 feet, one inch.

Bob Williams emerged as the winner in the 9,000-pound stock pull when his tractor dragged the weight sled a total of 256 feet, seven inches. Second went to John Entienne with a pull of 239 feet, eight inches. Robert Peterson placed third as his tractor pulled 229 feet, eight inches.

In the final event of the evening, the 12,000-pound stock pull, Norm Evans won first prize in a "pull off" against Bob Keehouer, Bill Green, and Keith Swiber after all had recorded full pulls. Finally, during the pull off, Evans pulled the sled to another full pull while Green took second followed by Green and Swiber.

Tonight in front of the grandstand will be the first of two nights of the demolition derby. Admission each night will be $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children 6-12.

Seiberling backs impeachment bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following are the remarks of U.S. Rep. John Seiberling, D-Ohio, during House Judiciary Committee debate on the impeachment of President Nixon:

"In my view, the fundamental test in an impeachment proceeding is whether the person occupying the Office of the President has so violated or ignored the limits of the law and the Constitution or has been so derelict in discharging his responsibilities thereunder that to continue him in office would be to undermine the presidency and thus the Constitution.

"The evidence we have reviewed in this proceeding is overwhelming. We have statement after statement of President Nixon, in his own words, falsifying facts, condoning and even directing a whole spectrum of misdeeds by his trusted aides, ranging from violations of the Constitution to corruption of the internal revenue system.

"The pattern of conduct revealed by the acts of President Nixon and his associates is unmistakable. President Nixon was obsessed with the preservation and extension of his own personal power. In the name of protecting his associates and himself, President Nixon was willing to use the powers of the government to destroy anything which he considered an actual or potential threat to his power. To this end he directed the violation of the constitutional rights of American citizens, he directed the cover-up of crimes committed by his associates, and he kept as his closest aides men whom he knew had committed crimes against the very government they were professing to serve, and which we are sworn to protect. This is the one pattern of conduct which is consistent with the entire body of evidence. It is also spelled out in President Nixon's own words.

"Faced with this pattern of conduct we cannot escape the fact that what we do here is going to set a standard for the future conduct of the Office of the President. If with this record before us we allow this President to remain in office without a full trial of his fitness in the Senate, then the Presidency itself will have been permanently demeaned and degraded and the people's trust in the integrity of our future Presidents will be permanently undermined."

Urge branches for registration

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown urged county election officials Thursday to "adopt a plan which will be most effective in making branch registration places nore available and more convenient to nonregistered people of your county."

Brown recommended more branch registration sites during the secretary of state's annual Conference on Elections.

Brown said 62 counties have countywide registration and four counties have partial voter registration.

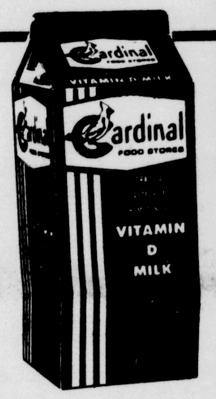

TOP CARCASS — Harold Thompson, of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, purchased Doug Bonhams' top lamb carcass with a bid of $4. The carcass weighed 51.5 lbs.

Giants fall 14-13, 5-0

Perez' homer sparks Reds' sweep

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — In 1969, when Dave Bristol was manager of the Cincinnati Reds, he had a saying that seems to be holding true today.

"If the game goes long enough, Tony Perez will find a way to win it," Bristol would say.

Perez made Bristol's words come back to life Thursday night when he hit a dramatic, two-out homer to cap a furious, five-run ninth inning rally that gave the Reds a 14-13 victory over the San Francisco Giants in the first game of a doubleheader.

Lefthander Fred Norman completed the Reds' fifth sweep this season with a five-hit, 5-0 shutout in the second game.

The two victories gave the Reds a 15-4 record for the second half of the season and kept them 5½ games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League's Western Division. The Dodgers took two from Houston.

The first game went three hours 20 minutes. Trailing 13-9 when the ninth inning started, Pete Rose drove in one run with a single, Joe Morgan another with a ground out, and Johnny Bench a third with an infield hit.

That set the stage for Perez' 17th homer of the year, hit off loser Randy Hoffitt, 4-4.

"I knew it was gone when I hit it," said Perez. "That's when I started jumping up and down."

The homer was Perez' ninth game-winning hit this season. Seven have been home runs.

"Unbelievable," said Bench of the comeback that saw Cincinnati erase San Francisco leads of 3-0, 10-7 and 13-9.

"I haven't seen a game like that in some time," said Reds Manager Sparky Anderson.

"We made our extra point and they missed theirs."

In all there were 35 hits, the most in any game in the National League this season. Rose and Dave Concepcion, who also contributed his seventh homer, had four hits, as did the Giants' Tito Fuentes.

The second game gave Norman a 10-9 record and his second shutout of the season.

Norman's biggest trouble came in the third when the Giants loaded the bases with two outs. Gary Thomasson then lined one to left center that Cesar Geronimo ran down with a fine running catch.

"He's the best center fielder in the league," said Anderson of Geronimo, who also had three hits, a run-batted-in, two runs scored and a stolen base.

Ken Griffey hit his second homer of the season for the Reds in the game.

Marshall loses, King wins in debuts

By The Associated Press

It was one small step for Jim Marshall, one giant step for Clyde King...and two steps backwards for the New York Mets.

Marshall took his first halting step as Chicago's new manager — and fell flat on his face as the Philadelphia Phillies bombed the Cubs 10-2.

King took his first step as Atlanta's new manager and ever so carefully remained upright as his Braves eked out a 10-inning 1-0 victory over San Diego.

And the Mets started their "charge" toward the top of the National League East exactly the same way they did after last year's All-Star break, losing a doubleheader to the St. Louis Cardinals, this time by 4-3 and 4-1 scores with the first game going 10 innings.

In other National League action on Thursday's jammed schedule, Los Angeles swept a pair from Houston 11-3 and 2-0, Cincinnati took two from San Francisco 14-13 and 5-0, and Montreal split with Pittsburgh, winning 10-5 before the Pirates won the second game 3-2.

Braves 1, Padres 0

Roland Office's 10th-inning single gave the Braves their victory over San Diego. Darrell Evans walked and was sacrificed to second by Dusty Baker before Office slapped his gamewinning hit to right.

Cards 4-4, Mets 3-1

"It's just like last year," Mets' Manager Yogi Berra quipped. "We came in here and lost a doubleheader."

Asked if he thinks it may be an omen, he replied: "I don't know. I don't like to see it happen that way every year...I feel we've still got a chance. We're no worse off now than we were at this time last year. We've just got to start winning some games."

Jack Aker, in relief of Jerry Koosman, hit Jerry Davanon with a 10th-inning bases-loaded pitch to give the Cards the first-game victory and St. Louis beat Jon Matlack in finale on the strength of Alan Foster's three-hitter.

Dodgers 11-2, Astros 3-0

Jim Wynn hit a home run and three singles and Tom Paciorek slugged a three-run triple to lead Los Angeles' firstgame romp and Doug Rau's seven-hitter made it a sweep of the Astros.

Expos 10-2, Pirates 5-3

Homers by Manny Sanguillen and Willie Stargell led Pittsburgh Pirates past Montreal after Ron Hunt reached base safely five straight times, scored twice and drove in three runs to pace the Expos' firstgame victory.

Jenkins pitches Rangers to 4-1 win over White Sox

By The Associated Press

You've really got to have something up your sleeve to beat Wilbur Wood.

Ferguson Jenkins of the Texas Rangers dealt his ace Thursday night — a curve ball that dropped off the table.

"My curve was excellent and that was the pitch that got me out of a lot of jams," Jenkins noted after whipping Wood and the Chicago White Sox 4-1 with a seven-hitter. "It was a strange game for me in in a way. Normally I throw at least 20 sliders a game.

"But I threw almost all curves and fastballs. I threw only a couple of changeups and sliders tonight."

In the other American League games, the New York Yankees beat the Milwaukee Brewers 1-0; the Boston Red Sox routed the Detroit Tigers 12-4; the Cleveland Indians beat the Baltimore Orioles twice, 8-7 and 5-4 in 13 innings; the Oakland A's trimmed the Minnesota Twins 5-1 and the Kansas City Royals nipped the California Angels.

Yankees 1, Brewers 0

Bobby Murcer singled home a run in the first inning and George "Doc" Medich protected it with a five-hitter for his fifth consecutive complete game victory as New York beat Milwaukee.

Red Sox 12, Tigers 4

Rico Petrocelli, Carl Yastrzemski and Tommy Harper blasted home runs, helping Boston rout Detroit. The Red Sox riddled Mickey Lolich for 11 hits and eight runs in the first three innings to hand the Tigers their 14th loss in 16 games.

Indians 8-5, Orioles 7-4

John Lowenstein's two-run double in a four-run, fifth inning and Dave Duncan's tworun homer led Cleveland over Baltimore in the first game of their doubleheader. Tom McCraw's bases-loaded single in the last of the 13th inning capped a two-run rally, giving Cleveland the second game.

A's 5, Twins 1

Vida Blue pitched a three-hitter and Sal Bando drove in three runs with a pair of homers, leading Oakland over Minnesota.

NFL picketers unite with auto workers

Just the way most people make a down payment on a car, striking National Football League players have placed a down payment on picket help with the United Auto Workers.

There were three extra pickets walking the line Thursday outside a Lordstown, Ohio auto assembly plant which has been struck by the UAW. They were Ed Podolak of the Kansas City Chiefs, Gary Ballman of the Minnesota Vikings and Don Diedorf of the St. Louis Cardinals, and their appearance was no accident.

The football players were trading their services at the auto workers' strike line for a pledge of picket help by the UAW when the NFL Players Association throws its line up at Saturday's Hall of Fame Game in Canton, Ohio.

The game between the St. Louis Cardinals and Buffalo Bills will be played by rookies, free agents and non-striking veterans with the NFLPA and some 150 volunteers from UAW Local 1112 picketing outside the stadium.

Meanwhile, Edward Coleman, board chairman of UAW Local 542, said his union representatives have voted not to join the picket line.

The Hall of Fame said it had received about 500 demands for refunds including one from Frank Valenta, president of the 130,000-member Greater Cleveland Labor Federation.

"I'm an avid pro football fan," said Valenta, "but I refuse to be a scab football fan."

Caught in the middle of football's labor tangle is Mayor Stanley Cmich, who doesn't usually have this much commotion in Canton. "Both parties should resolve the issue at a negotiating table," said the mayor, "not outside Fawcett Stadium. Our community doesn't deserve this kind of treatment."

Elsewhere, a trickle of veterans continued to show up at NFL camps. As of Thursday evening, the NFL Management Council, the league's bargaining agent with the Players Association, reported that 165 veterans had reported to training camps despite the strike. The only teams without any veterans in camp were the Denver Broncos and Minnesota Vikings.

New York Stars hand Philadelphia 17-15 loss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The New York Stars' victory over the Philadelphia Bell Thursday night was a snap. But that doesn't mean it was easy.

Larry Butler went into the game as a guard for the Stars. At the end of the game he was the center, and the hero.

With less than four minutes gone in the fourth quarter, Moses Lajterman booted a 40-yard soccer-style field goal to give the Stars their first World Football League victory, a 17-15 decision over the Bell in a nationally televised game.

"It was my first snap of the season," said Butler, who moved from guard to center when Bob Kuziel was injured in the second half. "I was confident that I could get it through, but it was a real bad snap."

Lajterman agreed, but the Argentine kicker from Montclair State (N.J.) College still managed to put it through the cross bars.

"It was a bad snap, but it went through," said Lajterman, whose boot culminized a 50-yard drive in 11 plays.

Philadelphia, now 1-2, muffed two last-ditch chances to win before the record WFL hometown crowd of 64,719. A 36-yard field goal attempt by Jack Simcsak with 2:12 remaining went off to the right, and a 26-yarder by George Chatlos with one second on the clock was wide to the left.

Philadelphia took an 8-0 lead in the first quarter on an 18-yard King Corcoran pass to Claude Watts and an action point.

New York, also 1-2, closed the gap midway in the second period when Dave Richards bolted over from the one-yard line. Two plays earlier, the 185-pound running back pulled in a 40-yard deflected pass from quarterback Tom Sherman before being tackled on just short of the goal line.

The Stars made it 14-7 at halftime on a one-yard dive by Bob Gladieux after Sherman set the play up with a 20-yard pass to Al Young.

But Philadelphia regained the lead, 15-14, at 5:51 of the third period on a nine-yard TD pass from Corcoran to LeVell Hill.

King Henry wins Scioto feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — King Henry found room along the rail to win by a length in the featured Scarlet and Grey Series for three-year-old pacers in the featured race at Scioto Downs on Thursday.

King Henry paid $13.40, $4.60 and $2.80. Lustron Hanover placed to pay $3.40 and $2.40, while Solar Storm showed for $2.20.

Five Grandsons wins River Downs race

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Nine entries have been received for the eighth race at River Downs today. The feature is for 3 and 4 year old fillies who will go 5½ furlongs.

In Thursday's feature, Five Grandsons went the mile and 70 yards of the feature race in front, covering the distance in 1:43.

The winner returned $8.60, $2.80 and $2.60. Eager Wish placed to pay $2.20 and $2.20 and Milton Bey showed to return $2.80.

Air base fights mosquito invasion

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — Homestead Air Force Base has enlisted the aid of a tactical airlift squadron in its fight against the area's worst mosquito infestation in years.

In the past, the base has relied on ground forces to control the yearly summer onslaught of salt-marsh and flood-plain mosquitoes.

But this year, the base turned to the 355th Tactical Airlift Squadron at Ohio's Rickenbacker Air Force Base for help in controlling the mosquitoes.

"I've been here for four years, and it's the worst I've seen it," said base public information officer Capt. Michael Gallagher. "Our men work outside 24 hours a day, and you can't spend time slapping mosquitoes if you want to do your job."

The first bombardment of mosquitoes took place last week and others are planned for August and September, Gallagher said. He said a C123 spray plane covered a total of 8,000 acres on and around the base.

"The aerial spraying sure helped reduce the mosquito population but we had to send the spray trucks back in six days later," Gallagher said.

The unusually high invasion in South and Central Florida resulted from a period of very dry weather followed by heavy spring rains, officials said. Ponds and marshes dried up during the dry weather, giving the mosquitoes protected areas to lay their eggs; then the heavy rains hatched millions of eggs that had lain dormant for years.

James Heidt, chief of Dade County Mosquito-Control Division, says the mosquito invasion won't end until October.

"The aerial spraying is not dangerous to people or animals," Gallagher said. "But we warned beekeepers and shrimp farmers to take safety precautions before the plane took to the air."

Agriculture study grants set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agricultural Research Service, which has an annual budget in the neighborhood of $220 million, this month has announced thousands of dollars worth of new or renewed study grants.

A spokesman for that Agriculture Department agency rejected a suggestion made by another department official that it was "clearing out the coffers" — committing left-over funds from the fiscal year that ended July 1 so that no one gets the idea it has too much money.

It "seems to happen every July," the ARS spokesman said, because of the decision-making process at the agency. Research projects are received or solicited early in the fiscal year and evaluated but usually not approved until the following June, as the fiscal year coincidentally is winding up, he said.

Then, the spokesman said, the information office announces them individually at the rate of two or three a day to avoid a deluge of news releases on one day. The money however, moves out as the June commitments are made.

Here are a sampling of the grants — officially, "cooperative agreements" — from four days this week:

—$19,600 for a two-year Auburn University study of "stress-susceptible swine." It seems that this nervous problem may be inherited and the glads can be aggravated by overcrowding, mixing with strange hogs during marketing or exposure to hot weather or rough handling. Death, poor pork and lower retail yields are ultimate possibilities.

—An additional inflation-caused $12,000 for the already committed $20,000 project to design the most economic and efficient fence to protect sheep and goats from predators and to study chemicals for use as potential repellents A&M University Agricultural Experiment Station at College Station is doing the research.

—A one-year $5,000 study of the effects of high-pitched noises in driving coyotes away from sheep, at South Dakota State.

—$10,000 to the Fresno Foundation of California State to develop a processing technique for producing raisins from grapes harvested by machines that cause weight and quality losses in raisins.

—$30,100 to Cornell University's Agricultural Experiment Station to determine the major nutrients, especially lipides, or fats, in freshwater fish.

—$12,000 to Montana State at Bozeman to study polyarthritis of calves, or weak calf — the four-legged kind — syndrome.

Army leader visits office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Chief of Staff Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, recovering from surgery, returned for a brief visit to his office but is not expected to resume full-time duties for some time.

Abrams' visit at his Pentagon office on Thursday was his first since he underwent surgery for removal of a cancerous lung nearly seven weeks ago.

He has been recuperating at his home in nearby Ft. Myer, Va.

Workers on strike at Hollophane Co.

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Officials at Hollophane Co. have threatened to end negotiations with striking workers unless the employes lower their demand for a 40-cent hourly wage hike.

The strike by electric workers began July 15. The company's 250 other employes have refused to cross picket lines.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Father Needs Help, Not Children

My husband is most impatient with our 10-year-old twins. They can't express any reaction without having their father berate them. How can I help them during these moments?

Mrs. H.R., Minn.

Dear Mrs. R.:

The real target for your help should be your husband, who apparently has little or no understanding of the bill of rights of children.

Even though youngsters do not have the so-called major problems of family life they do have all the conflicts, insecurities, rivalries, jealousies and other problems associated with their own age group.

Most parents today appreciate the right of a child to express an opinion, even if it is not in agreement with their own. Talking out these differences establishes better relationships between parents and children. Mutual respect for ideas is a goal to be achieved in every family.

Your husband should be encouraged to read some of the excellent material that is available on this subject. Discussion with a psychologist will give him a better insight into the emotional needs of his children and will, in fact, add greatly to the happiness in your home.

* * *

Our daughter works in a shop about three miles from our home. We notice that it has become increasingly more difficult for her to go to work because some kind of fear is troubling her. We are afraid that it will cause her to lose her job. We don't know what to do about this to help her.

Mr. and Mrs. G.T., Tex.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. T.:

Some people develop a fear of open spaces. This is known as agoraphobia. I suspect that if you were to carefully examine your daughter's general behavior you might find other evidences of fear, anxiety and neurotic tendencies.

It is absolutely essential that you bring this problem to the attention of your doctor, a psychiatrist, or a psychologist to see if they can get at the root of the problem.

One of the traps you must not fall into is to embarrass her or pressure her into trying to overcome this problem without help.

Another trap that families fall into is believing that time alone will be the answer. Valuable time can be lost if help is not obtained early.

End probe of poster

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state attorney general's office says it has decided not to investigate further alleged irregularities surrounding a poster showing a nude figure upon which the face of former Gov. James A. Rhodes is superimposed.

A spokesman for Atty. Gen. William Brown said Thursday that after examining evidence submitted by the secretary of state, the attorney general has concluded the investigation should be made by the Franklin County prosecutor.

The secretary of state had requested both the attorney general and the county prosecutor to determine whether the poster, created by a former state public relations employe who said it was done as a business venture, violated any state campaign laws.

The county prosecutor's office is still investigating the matter, a spokesman there said.

George Smith, the Franklin County prosecutor, is Brown's opponent in the November general election for attorney general.

Lordstown strike enters 3rd week

LORDSTOWN, Ohio (AP)— The United Auto Workers strike against General Motors Corp.'s assembly plant here goes into its third week today with no sign of a break in the deadlock over local contract issues and grievances.

Negotiators for GM and UAW Local 1112 have been meeting until late at night every day this week. Since a news blackout was imposed last Monday neither side has commented on progress in the talks.

However, a union official said last week settlement could be reached within a matter of hours once there is a break in the deadlock.

Goodyear notes record earnings

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. overcame strikes, high interest rates and price controls to post the highest quarterly and halfyear sales and earnings records in history, Goodyear Chairman Charles J. Pilliod Jr. said Thursday.

Net income for the second quarter was $61,457,000 or 85 cents a share, up 10 per cent from $55,891,000 or 76 cents a share in the same period of 1973, the company reported. The previous one-quarter high point was $56,394,000.

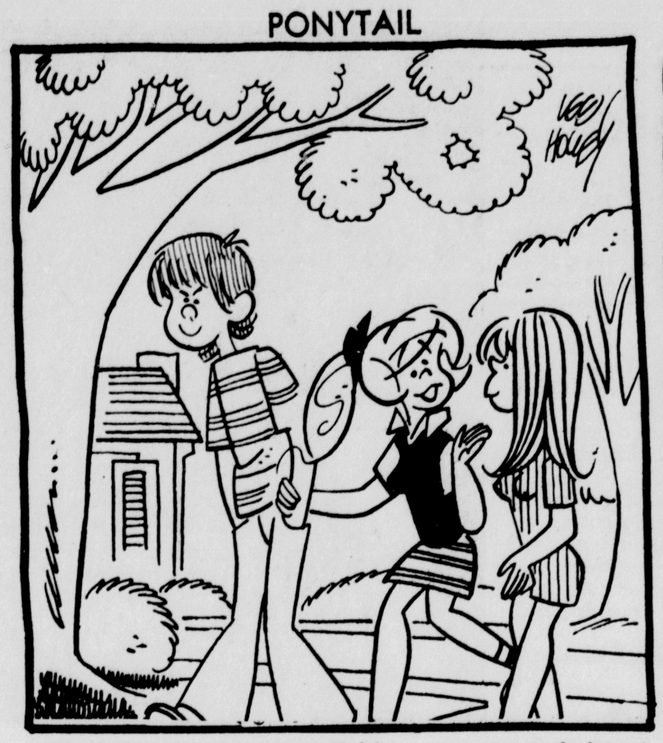

Second quarter sales were reported as $1,368,050,000, an increase of 13 per cent over the $1,210,754,000 recorded in the corresponding period last year. —

Contract awarded for Mexican project

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A $5 million contract from the Mexican government will be awarded to the National Electric Coil Co. for rebuilding and converting several large hydrogenerators, the company announced.

The project is part of a Mexican effort to expand power availability for increasing industrial production. National Electric Coil said a letter of intent was received from the Mexican government Wednesday.

Driver Ed gets business boost

NEW YORK (AP) — Driver education, one of the more costly subjects taught in our schools today, is heavily assisted by private business. In 1972, approximately $138 million worth of cars were loaned to schools by local dealers. Many classroom materials are also provided. For example, Uniroyal Tire Corp. sponsors an entire programmed course while General Motors Corp. distributes instructive films.

Sen. Taft calls for housing plan

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (AP)— U.S. Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, saying the only quick cure for slum areas is if oil is discovered there, called Thursday for housing rehabilitation to preserve city neighborhoods "in early stages of decline."

Taft, in a text prepared for delivery before the Ohio Conference on Community Development executive board meeting at the Kings Island Inn, explained his proposed amendment for what he called the first major housing bill before the U.S. Congress since 1968.

"There was extensive rhetoric about the last bill saving the cities," Taft said. "There are no such promises with the housing bill now in conference."

The senator said that the bill promises to end "two years of funding cutbacks, indecision about federal policy, stagnation of the programs and lack of progress."

The Senate proposals for funding would decrease money coming to Ohio's central cities by 70 per cent, while increasing funding for surrounding areas by 461 per cent, Taft said.

"The best we can get is a possible compromise which gives the Housing and Urban Development Department considerable discretion in the funding formula," he said. Taft said the compromise would assure the cities of their present level of funding for several years.

Taft emphasized the need for housing rehabilitation in early stages of decline to "save money that would be needed later for comprehensive urban renewal."

He went on to say that his amendment would also require at least 80 per cent of federal housing funds to be spent on activities designed to alleviate either deteriorating areas or to aid low or moderate income families.

Taft called on the board to continue responsible planning of programs aimed at easing housing problems.

"I am confident that Ohio's cities and the people involved can meet this challenge in the same way they have faced up to challenges in the past," Taft said.

Galion man jailed in abduction, rape

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)— Samuel J. Kochs, 32, of Galion, was bound over to the Richland County Grand Jury in an alleged abduction and rape of an 18-year-old Columbus woman July 19.

Kochs was being held in lieu of $100,000 bond after pleading innocent to the charges Wednesday.

Kochs is accused of kidnapping the woman in downtown Mansfield and raping her at knifepoint in the country. He was stopped by the state highway patrol for a traffic violation and the woman was found in his car, authorities said.

CANINE COMPETITION WINNERS — First place in the senior dog grooming competition was Lu Brown with her dog, Heidi (left). Heidi and Lu will be separated from each other Sunday when Heidi returns to Pilot Dogs Inc., in Columbus, and experiences intensive training before becoming a full-fledged seeing eye dog. Second place in the senior dog grooming competition was Tammy Schneider (middle) and first place in the junior dog grooming competition was Jana Hanawalt (right).

Heidi, Lu to part

On July 18, the Record-Herald published a feature story on Lu Brown and her dog Heidi, explaining if Heidi would have won first place in the Fayette County Junior Fair dog show, which was held Thursday, Lu would be permitted to keep Heidi long enough to enter her in the Ohio State Fair in Columbus.

Why can't Lu keep Heidi in the first place?

Heidi is a rather special black Labrador Retriever, for she is destined to become a seeing-eye dog through the Pilot Dogs Inc., training program in Columbus and eventually become the eyes of someone without sight.

Lu received Heidi after completing an application at Pilots Dogs and has been raising and training her for almost a year now. Heidi has now reached the age and maturity level necessary for the upcoming three to five months of intensive training a seeing eye dog must go through at Pilot Dogs, Inc., and must be returned to the organization on Sunday.

Heidi did not win first place in the obedience competition, but she did take the first place ribbon and plaque in the dog grooming competition. However, this was not enough to extend Heidi's presence in the Brown household.

If Heidi does not do as well as expected in the Pilot Dog training and she is not kept by the organization for breeding purposes, Lu does have first choice at keeping her for good, but judging from the excellent efforts put forth by a full sister of Heidi's presently at Pilot Dogs, it's not likely.

Lu Brown and her mother, Sarah, will drive Heidi to Columbus Sunday, and as Lu put it," "I know I'll be sad and I know I'll cry, but if Heidi makes it, I'll be so proud of her being able to help someone without sight."

Rep. Latta raps impeachment move

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following are the remarks of U.S. Rep. Delbert Ohio, during House Judiciary Committee debate on the impeachment of President Nixon:

"Wouldn't the mere thought of impeachment by an opposition Congress cause future Presidents to tailor their acts to the wishes of the Congress, thereby weakening the office of the Presidency? All must agree that today's world demands strength, not weakness in the office of the President of the United States.

"As we deliberate in the closing days of these hearings, each of us on this Committee must consider the effect the President's removal would have on the strength of this office and the respect it enjoys throughout the world.

"For the past year allegation after allegation has been hurled at the President. Some of them have been stated so often many people have come to accept them as facts, without need of proof. Our job as members of this committee has been to sift through these allegations and to attempt to ascertain whether any or all of them are unture and supportable on the floor of the House.

"Yes, and if need be, in the Senate of the United States.

How can the members of this committee, who have made public statements, and have themselves introduced articles of impeachment, prior to our deliberations, retract those statements, undo those actions, and assume a role as an impartial juror? How do you overcome the powerful influences of such pro-impeachment forces as organized labor, COPE, ADA and similar groups on the minds of members sympathetic to their causes?

"The truthful answer is you don't, and I am not about to represent to the good people of the Fifth Congressional District of Ohio or the people in this great nation that you can do otherwise. Everybody on this committee detests wrongdoing. No one condones it, and by their very nature such things have always been repugnant to me, and I would be the first in line to punish any wrongdoer, the President of the United States included, once he is found guilty.

"I have said before and I say now: show me the hard evidence that the President of the United States is guilty of the many serious charges being leveled against him, and I will show you a vote for impeachment. This evidence must be clear and convincing. It cannot be based on inferences.

"To impeach there must be direct presidential involvement, and the evidence thus far has failed to produce it."

Car damaged

A beer bottle was thrown through the left rear window of a car owned by Kemmard Tackett, 25, U.S. 62-SW, at 10 p.m. Thursday.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported the car had been parked at Anderson's Restaurant, CCC-Highway-W, when the incident occurred.

Claim Turks building up offensive force on Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkey is building up its invasion force in Cyprus and grabbing new territory on several fronts in violation of the cease-fire, military and diplomatic sources claim.

The sources gave no specific figures but cited eyewitness reports of troops, trucks, armor and other war materiel pouring into the Turkish beachhead on the north coast.

Waves of Turkish helicopters were seen flying over the Kyrenia mountains Thursday to inland landing zones on this Mediterranean island 45 miles south of Turkey, the sources said.

One foreign military attache estimated that the initial Turkish force of about 6,000 men that landed Saturday might have swelled to more than 10,000, despite the cease-fire that took effect Monday.

However, the cease-fire was reported holding up fairly well.

Sporadic firing along the "Green Line" separating Nicosia's Greek and Turkish quarters was the only fighting reported Thursday.

Turkish troops have added one or two miles a day to their beachhead east and west of the port of Kyrenia. It is now about 15 miles wide.

Military sources said Turkish forces also are widening their corridor from the sea to the main Turkish enclave at Nicosia.

United Nations observation posts have reported several changes in Turkish positions on the eastern and western edges of this corridor since the ceasefire went into effect.

Turkish and Greek troops are 500 yards apart on the western edge of Nicosia international airport. U.N. forces averted a major battle for the runways by occupying the airfield and calling in reinforcements.

15 hp power packed portable.

Manual or electric-start. In a new low profile. Short and narrow. More compact than comparable models. And the electric-start comes sized the same as the manual model. FireFlash ignition makes the starting fast and sure. Thru-propeller exhaust gives you better performance. Power never came better suited for fishing or sailing.
